M. de Montholon Appointed French Minister at Washington.

The Emperor Napoleon and Mexico.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL.

The Inman steamer City of London, Capt. PERRIN, which left Liverpool at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the 8th, and Queenstown on the 9th of March, arrived here yesterday morning.

We announced yesterday morning the arrival of the City of Washington. She left Liverpool on March 1, but was obliged to put back for repairs to her bilge pumps, and sailed again on March 8, simultaneously with the City of London.

The French Minister of Public Instruction had tendered his resignation, but NAPOLEON refused to accept it.

OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENCE.

Reported Complications of France with the United States and Russia—Friendly View of Prince Napoleon—Probable Fight with the Rebel Ram.

From Our Own Correspondent.
PARIS, Friday, Feb. 28, 1865.

The excitement about the relations between France and the United States is on the increase, and causes infinitely more uneasiness here than it appears to do at home. All sorts of possible and impossible rumors are flying about on the subject, and on all sides a demand is made for a word of explanation from the Government.

Among other statements is one to the effect that a coldness has intervened between the Governments of France and Russia, because the latter has gained the ascendency at Washington, and because it was by the advice of Russia that Mr. LINCOLN consented to go to meet the Confederate Commissioners at Fortress Monroe! The logic of the thing you will see is in the fact that on former occasions we refused the entreaties of France to try to bring the rebels to terms by peace conferences, and then yielded to the solicitations of Russia.

Once started, it was just as easy to go further, and to the above report has been added a sequel, or more properly a corollary, to the effect that a secret understanding has been come to by the United States and Russia, by which Russia promises that when the United States attacks France and England in Mexico and Canada, or France alone in Mexico, she will recommence the march again through the Danubian Principalities toward Constantinople.

It suffices to mention these reports, to show you the extent of the excitement on the subject.

The French official and semi-official papers have within a few days changed their tone again, and become more hostile to the Union cause. In order to counteract the effect of Mr. SEWARD'S history of the peace conference in Hampton Roads, the Confederate agents at London have sent all over the continent a dispatch which the Havas agency fathered, and which was published by the French governmental papers. This dispatch says it speaks by high authority, and then gives the various pretended points offered by Mr. LINCOLN to the Confederate Commissioners, every one of which is false, and intended to place Mr. LINCOLN in an odious light before the European people. The last promise of Mr. LINCOLN to the South is, that he is willing to unite with them in a war against France and England.

It is thus that the Confederate agents manipulate the press and prejudice public opinion against the Union cause. If you wish to see the enormity of the act of the official journal in publishing this false dispatch, you must take into account that the dispatch was concocted after Mr. LINCOLN'S account of the interview at Hampton Roads had arrived at London; that the dispatch sets out by saying that what is going to follow is the "exact truth" about the peace conference; that all the terms mentioned are false, insidious and studied in their terms, so as to produce the most harm possible; and finally, that the Moniteur, in publishing this dispatch, took good care to leave the caption guaranteeing its correctness, thereby giving to the world the idea that it was official.

The news from Mexico is causing great uneasiness, and this, too, is giving rise to many reports of an alarming character, but which we have yet no means of verifying. For example, the Avenir National of last evening publishes the startling announcement that MAXIMILIAN has solemnly protested against the family compact made before his departure from Trieste, and which excludes him from the succession to the throne of Austria. The inference to be drawn is, that MAXIMILIAN already sees that his reign in Mexico is not likely to last, and that he does not wish to be left entirely out in the cold; for in the family compact referred to, the patrimonial estate is comprised, as well as the throne, and the Prince's habits are not noted for their economy. What the Prince is trying to do by a protestation is to prevent the Reichsrath from confirming the compact. He denies the competency of this body to interfere in the private affairs of the Imperial family.

Much to our surprise, the papers have been allowed to publish a dispatch which announces that Dr. GWIN (whom they had already called in print the Duke GWIN was on his way back from Mexico, because MAXIMILIAN, fearing that the Doctor's colonization scheme was only a plan for collecting together a Confederate army in Sonora, and for embroiling Mexico with the United States, had refused to allow him to proceed with his operations. This announcement has naturally caused great chagrin in rebel quarters, and added much to the excitement on the Mexican question.

In France, as well as in England, the lines between the friends of the North and the friends of the South among the citizens of the country are being more and more tightly drawn. There are thus in governmental circles as well as in the public, two parties who quarrel almost with the same vivacity as a Northern and a Southern man would do, and this fact accounts for the many contradictions and the many currents of opinion, or rather fluctuations of opinion, we observe in the French press. A few evenings ago a well-known Democratic politician of New-York was invited to dine at the Prince NAPOLEON'S, in company with some leading French Liberals, all of whom, including the Prince, expressed themselves strongly in favor of the North and of abolition. The Prince said to the New-York Democrat that the rebellion was a crime, and must and would be put down, and that in his opinion it was already near its close. He said that he differed with his guest in regard to emancipation, for that he had upheld President LINCOLN in his emancipation measures from the start, and in fact the Prince and his French friends showed themselves so much better Americans than their American guest, that the latter felt confounded. The Prince, on this occasion, said that the French would be glad to get out of Mexico, as the Americans would be glad to get them out, for he was tired of the whole affair, and thought the French people were also. He expressed the warmest sentiments of friendship toward the United States, and hoped that the two nations would always remain the good friends they had been.

The news from Corunna, in Spain, is a little different from what I gave you in my last. The Olinda or Stonewall, has obtained the privilege of taking in some coal, and was engaged in this operation when last heard from. With a good head of steam on, and in smooth water, it would be easy for her to run down and sink the Niagara and Sacramento, but these two vessels, in order to avoid such an event, have slipped their cables and are lying in wait with steam up, to get out of the way of the monster, and to be able to fight her on their own terms and in their own way. The twenty-four hour rule is not to be observed, for there is no Spanish vessel there to enforce it, and the antagonists are therefore lying close to each other, prepared to go to sea together—if they go at all. Capt. CRAVEN doubts his ability to whip the ram in a smooth sea, but thinks he can easily do it in a rough one; and if the ram goes out in a calm he will follow her till he finds a storm. The Confederates say that since the affair of the Florida at Bahia, they, too, are not going to observe the neutrality of the waters they are lying in; and it is on this account that Capt. CRAVEN dare not allow the Niagara to lie tied fast at her anchors. It is probable that when the officers of the Olinda find that Capt. CRAVEN is aware of their designs, they will turn off their steam and stay where they are. I believe the point is not settled yet as to whether the French or Danish Government is responsible for the escape of this vessel.

THE FALL OF CHARLESTON.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

In the absence of later news from America, which was anxiously expected, the result of the fall of Charleston continued to be eagerly canvassed.

The London Times, in an editorial recounting and eulogizing the operations of SHERMAN down to the fall of Charleston, says:

"The next operations of this most eventful war will be expected with singular interest. SHERMAN has traversed Georgia, as a conqueror, but the Georgians have not returned to the Union, nor have the Unionists occupied the State. For that even SHERMAN is not strong enough. Had he left even small garrisons in the several towns which he entered, he would now be without an army. LEE and BEAUREGARD are at the head of unbroken armies, and the spirit of the South has rather been raised than depressed by its recent reverses. The Federals have recovered their military reputation, but if the South is still resolved to stand out to the end, they have made but little progress toward the end of the war."

In another editorial the Times writes from a different point of view, and says:

"The signs of Confederate exhaustion have brought us to that turning point of the American war which places us within sight of the final scene, and the part we shall be called on to play in it. If the combatants shake hands, the next victim may be an unconcerned spectator. As the Federal Government maintains that it has a quarrel with us in the shape of claims, which we do not acknowledge, and it has a great deal to gain by a successful war with us, the question to which we have to address ourselves is simply whether they can go to war with us with a fair prospect of success. If they can, they certainly will—but both North and South are exhausted, and are not likely to find success easy by turning against a new foe with untouched strength and resources."

CURIOUS PLACARD.

Large placards had been stuck about Liverpool, giving the following from the 18th chapter of Revelations, apropos of the fall of Charleston:

"Babylon the Great is fallen! is fallen! for her sins have reached unto Heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities; and the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her, for no one buyeth their merchandise any more. Merchandise of gold and silver, and precious stones, and of pearls, and fine linen, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, and beasts, and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and slaves, and souls of men; and every shipmaster, and all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea, (blockade runners?) stood afar off, and cried when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, 'What city is like unto this great city?'"

OUR FINANCES.

THE SHIPMENT OF GOLD FROM ENGLAND.

From the London Times City Article, March 6.

The Australasian, from America, has brought only £5,000, and the quantity of bills on London now offering at New-York is far beyond the immediate demand for remittance that it is not impossible the next steamers hence may take out some amounts of gold. This condition arises from several obvious circumstances. A large proportion of the transactions in connection with the heavy and uninterrupted supplies of Federal bonds sent to meet the German craving for those securities are conducted through London houses, and in proportion as the payments are made to us from Germany the claims of New-York upon London are increased. For a long time past these operations have tended to keep the Continental exchanges from becoming very adverse, and they make as much in our favor in the settlement of our European as they make against us in those of our American dealings. Still, until the present moment, the sales of bonds, large and constant as they have been, have not fully suffered to satisfy the specie balances which the war expenditure causes day by day to fall due from America to Europe. It is but lately, indeed, that the sums of gold required to be remitted from New-York have become moderate, even in face of the facts that the bulk of the Californian supply is diverted hither, and that the protective and almost prohibitive tariff now in force has so pressed on the general population of the United States as to deprive them of the means of taking European goods in anything like their former quantity, their importations for the concluding half of the past year having been only equal to one-third of those of the preceding six months. The immediate event that has created the possibility of a momentary turn of the tide seems to have been the arrival at New-York, actual or expected, of the cotton seized at Savannah. There does not appear yet to have been any statement of the actual quantity and value of this seizure; but it is known to be sufficiently considerable to exercise a distinct effect upon the exchange with England. The transmission of specie from Liverpool to New-York, should any such operation just now take place, must, therefore, not be regarded as anomalous. It is simply a proof that the drain which that country is undergoing from the waste of war will yet admit of some infinitesimal percentage of the proceeds of the enormous debt they are piling up by borrowing European gold, and of the concurrent sale of a large prise of cotton to reach for a little while their own hands.

THE REBEL LOAN.

From the London Times, (City Article) March 6.

In the market for foreign securities the chief movement has been a further fall of 3 ₩ cent. in the Confederate Loan, which is down at 37¼ to 38⅜, but in nearly every other instance there has also been a fresh decline.

THE PROBABILITY OF WAR.

In a debate upon the naval estimates in the House of Commons, May 7, Sir J. PAKINGTON remarked:

"That in appointing Mr. REED in his present state of experience and efficiency to be chief constructor, they were trifling with the interests of England, when they allowed men of great skill and experience to leave the service at a time when war might break out at any moment, and they might be compelled to send a fleet across the Atlantic, possibly at the shortest notice. [Hear, hear.] He said it was trifling with the interests of England when a man was appointed to the head of this department whose first effort was a ship which he (Sir J. PAKINGTON) challenged the Admiralty to say they would venture to send to sea. [Hear, Hear.] He confessed that he (Sir J. PAKINGTON) felt very considerable alarm as to the state of the navy. His noble friend had told them of a small class of ships that were being built. But were those ships ready for service? He would not say that we had no ships, but he maintained that we had not the number of ships we ought to have, either for the protection of our own commerce, or to enable us to cripple the commerce of an enemy with whom we may be engaged. [Hear, hear.] He had felt it to be imperative upon him not to shrink from his duty in stating to the committee the rumors which had reached him; and no one would be more rejoiced than himself if his noble friend were able to displace the statements which he (Sir J. PAKINGTON) had felt himself compelled to make to the committee. [Hear, hear."]

FRANCE.

MEXICO.

The Pall Mall Gazette says that, in conformity with public opinion in France, the Emperor NAPOLEON will leave Mexico to her destiny as soon as the French troops have returned. There was a rumor, however, that a reinforcement of 5,000 troops was to be sent shortly to Mexico. The draft of the address to the Emperor, which is principally a paraphrase of the speech from the throne, had been read in the Senate. The address applauds the proposed measures of home policy. Speaking of the relations existing between the Church and the State, it says: "France will not allow the law of 1802, which is a defence against possible abuses, both from within and without, to fall into abeyance." It approves the Emperor's foreign policy, and hopes are expressed for the consolidation of the new Mexican Empire, and, however serious may be the questions that are still to be settled, the Emperor MAXIMILIAN will be able to decide them by prompt and energetic action. France will learn, from the testimony of her soldiers, soon to return to their country, that MAXIMILIAN reigns over a people sheltered henceforth under the banner of order. Alluding to the words of the Emperor, that the temple of war shall be closed, the address says: "Peace will be the policy of the future. Let us work in concert, to render plentiful this lasting peace."

MINISTER TO THE UNITED STATES.

M. DE MONTHOLON has been appointed French Minister at Washington, and M. DANO Minister at Mexico.

The Paris Bourse was steady. Rentes on the 7th were at 67.85.

SPAIN.

The Senate had resolved to pass a vote of thanks to the Queen for ceding the Crown lands to the State.

It is stated that the Spanish Admiral PAREJA will not leave the Pacific until all the conditions of peace between Spain and Peru have been fulfilled.

THE DUCHIES.

The answer of Austria to the Prussian dispatch relative to the Duchies had reached Berlin. Report says that Austria declares the proposals of Prussia entirely unfitted to be the basis for further negotiations.

PORTUGAL.

A new ministry had been formed with the Duke DE LOULE as President of the Council and Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the Marquis DE SA DA BANDEIRA as Minister of War.

GREECE.

The revolutionary party, and the party favorable to the Ex-King OTHO, had formed a coalition, their avowed object being constitutional opposition to the present Government.

She returns here for completion, and to receive a new engine for hoisting the anchors. Her officers speak of her in the highest terms, both as regards her sea-going qualities and rate of speed, she having a portion of the time attained 12 knots an hour, using only 24 furnaces out of 56. Her steering apparatus is now in complete order, two men managing her with perfect ease.

Rebel deserters who have just come into our lines state that one of our men, belonging to a Delaware regiment, had deserted a day or two since, and had informed the rebels that GRANT had massed three whole corps on his left, and that they were about to attack LEE. BUSHROD JOHNSON'S Division was immediately double-quicked all the way from Petersburgh to Hatcher's Run, and the rebel deserters say that JOHNSON is still there.

It is remarkable that Gen. GRANT has not moved a single regiment to his left, and thus the rebels were considerably sold. One does not know what reliance may be placed upon any stories brought in by deserters, but no doubt they contain some truth, well "dressed-up" for the occasion. All the men brought in their arms and equipments.

Two fine looking young men came in early yesterday morning on Gen. WARREN'S front, claiming at first to be deserters from the enemy. On reaching Gen. CRAWFORD'S headquarters they informed the Provost-Marshal that they were scouts, and special couriers from Gen. SHERIDAN. Their dispatches were ingeniously concealed, but how it matters not in this connection. They had circumnavigated the entire rear line of Gen. LEE'S army, and had been nine days on the journey. Four scouts started at the same time, two mounted and two on foot, and it is thought that the two couriers who brought Gen. SHERIDAN'S dispatch, already published, were the ones meant by these enterprising and daring young men.

They seemed very anxious to reach Gen. GRANT, and evidently had quite an interesting, if not important, report to make of their adventures and observations. No one asked them any questions, as it was evident that no information would be gained by such a proceeding. Just before reaching our lines they captured a rebel cavalryman, and brought him safely into our lines. Each had a pair of elegant revolvers and were dressed in a splendid suit of rebel clothes. They were dispatched under proper escort to headquarters. GEO. F. WILLIAMS.

Sherman Encounters No Serious Opposition.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 21.

Passengers who arrived to-day from City Point say:

News from Gen. SHERMAN reached there on Sunday, through two scouts, who left him last week.

He had occupied Goldsboro without opposition, having connected with Gen. SCHOFIELD.

REPORTS FROM NEWBERN.

NEWBERN, N. C., Saturday, March 18—10 A. M.

Parties who have arrived here from Gen. SHERMAN'S army say that we shall be able to join hands with him to-morrow or next day. One of them says SHERMAN walks over the course as fearlessly and unconcerned as a giant among pigmies, and the enemy are so demoralized and panic-stricken that it is doubtful whether they will make a stand or not.

In a debate in the North Carolina Legislature, a few weeks since, one member stated that the entire effective force of the Confederacy numbered only one hundred and twenty-one thousand men, which statement, on being questioned, was substantiated by an official document from Richmond.

The State authorities in North Carolina, who allow no guerrillas to prowl within the borders of the State, have repeatedly remonstrated with the authorities at Richmond against the inhuman treatment extended by the rebel Government to prisoners of war.

Steamers daily ascend the Neuse River with supplies for SCHOFIELD'S and SHERMAN'S armies.

The small steamer Mystic ran into a snag yesterday and sunk this side of Kinston. She will be raised in a day or two.

The decision of President LINCOLN disapproving the findings and sentence of the court-martial in the case of T. Maj. J. JAMISON, of the Fifth Rhode Island Artillery, meets with general satisfaction among his numerous friends here, who insist that he is innocent of any wrong.

Lieut. KNOX, chief signal officer, just from the front says that reports were brought in from Goldsboro, stating that the enemy had evacuated that place, and were moving toward Virginia.

Capt. A. S. KIMBALL, Acting Chief Quartermaster, who has rendered very important services to Gen. SCOFIELD'S army, leaves this morning for the front, to superintend the forwarding to SHERMAN'S troops of the supplies now on the way to them.

Sherman's Movements—Position of Johnston's Army.

WASHINGTON, Monday, March 21.

Gen. SHERMAN wrote, several days ago, from Fayetteville, to a friend, that he had received his supplies from up the Cape Fear River, and was at the time of writing ready to move again, and that he had followed, with slight exception, the path laid out before he left Savannah. He states that he had ordered the arsenal at Fayetteville to be blown up, as he hardly thought the Government would need an arsenal in future in either of the Carolinas. JOHNSTON'S entire army was at or near Goldsboro. It is believed that has not more than 40,000 men.

High Wind and Clouds of Dust—Explanation of the Late Activity in the Rebel Lines—They Expected Sheridan—Review of the Fifth Corps—City Point Matters, &c., &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.
Friday, March 17, 1865, 8 A. M.,

We endured a great deal of dust and a rather severe gale of wind yesterday. Clouds of flying sand filled the air and blinded all with the dusty particles. What rain we have had of late has all dried up, and the roads are all in good condition.

Deserters tell us that the greater part of the recent activity observable in Gen. LEE'S lines was occasioned by fears and expectations of Gen. SHERIDAN coming in on their rear and flank. If this is so, it shows that the enemy were considerably misled by SHERIDAN'S movements.

is rather extraordinary, and not at all what we have been accustomed to in March. It would almost seem as though a leaf had been torn out of our almanac, and that we were skipping blustering March altogether. April showers, delicious and balmy days are now the rule.

The contemplated review of the entire Fifth Army Corps took place yesterday, before Maj.-Gen. MEADE. Secretary STANTON, his wife and daughter, were among the spectators. Several other ladies and gentlemen accompanied the reviewing General. The review passed off very finely, and the command appeared to great advantage. The wind and dust were the only drawbacks. Gen. WARREN may well be proud of his gallant and heroic corps.

of interest to be communicated from the limits of this army. Our lines are very quiet, and the enemy seems to be on his good behavior.

still continues, and the railroad is severely taxed to provide the necessary transportation. Car-load after car-load has been sent down to the Point, and immense stacks of goods still stand piled up at the various stations. It will take some days yet for all of the sutlers and traders to clear out. Barbers had a very close shave of it, having been at first ordered off but subsequently allowed to remain.

Business carried me to City Point yesterday, and I found everything in a great state of excitement and bustle. The arrival of sutlers and their large piles of merchandize caused a good deal of business and extra amount of apparent activity. The people at the Point, however, were not busy enough but that they could find time to hatch out any number of false and improbable rumors.

on which I went to the Point was a curious medley of odds and ends. Sutlers and their clerks, citizens and soldiers, officers and privates; discharged soldiers going home, and recruits just joining their regiments. Ordnance officers and Quartermasters taking down surplus stores to turn them into the headquarters depot; sutlers seated on their remnant stock, and having almost everything wanted in an army piled up around them. Huge piles of camp kettles, unserviceable guns, blankets, tents and camp-chests, two or three extra pieces of artillery, a blacksmith's forge, and a couple of disconsolate

A Ride Along the Lines—The Rebels Quiet—Rumors of Sherman's Movements—Changes in the Provost-Marshal's Department.

From Our Own Correspondent.
RIGHT WING, ARMY POTOMAC,
Friday, March 17, 1865—8 A. M.

I rode yesterday along the entire front line of this army, extending from the Appomattox to Hatcher's Run. From several localities I had excellent views of the rebel encampment, and, with the help of a good field-glass, could plainly discern their movements. From all I could see, there were no indications of any move or active demonstration whatever on their part. They are lying quietly in camp, and the bustle observed a few days ago in their lines is accounted for on the ground that they were fearful of SHERIDAN coming up in their rear. My opinions, formed from personal observations, were confirmed by officers doing picket duty, with several of whom I conversed in the course of my tour.

Rebel deserters who came in on Wednesday night state that Gen. SHERMAN arrived in front of Raleigh on Monday night last, and a battle was commenced by him on Tuesday afternoon. When these deserters left the rebel lines there had been no intelligence received as to the result of the battle, but they avowed that it was the general impression on the other side that SHERMAN would be successful in gaining possession of the town in a few hours. Gen. LEE is said to have remarked, on receiving the intelligence of SHERMAN'S arrival before Raleigh: "Yes, and before I can concentrate troops enough there to oppose him he will acquire possession of the city." It is said to be very difficult for the rebel officers to hold their men together, and especially when on the march. A force sent by LEE to reinforce EARLY a short time ago, is said to have lost fully one-third its number before arriving at its destination. The facilities for desertion while on the march are so much greater than when in the camp, that it is thought a movement of LEE'S army will weaken to such an extent as to effectually destroy its capability of resisting even a corps of this army. Many of the rebel deserters are said to be organized in gangs in different parts of the country to enable them to resist arrest, and the difficulty of arresting them is so great that it is rarely attempted, except when they are caught alone out of the neighborhoods where their comrades resort.

I noticed yesterday the appointment of Gen. MACEY, (incorrectly written MASON,) to the post of Provost-Marshal-General of this army. Hitherto the duties devolving upon him have been discharged by Capt. SCHUYLER, of the Fourteenth U. S. Infantry, acting as assistant to Gen. PATRICK, Provost-Marshal-General of the Department. The new appointment has resulted in several important changes in the force doing provost duty at army headquarters. The One Hundred and Fourteenth and Sixty-eighth Pennsylvania Volunteers have been relieved, and will go to City Point to do garrison duty there. They are under command of Brig.-Gen. COLLIS, and form, with the Twentieth New-York Militia and a cavalry regiment not yet designated, what will be known as the Provost-Marshal's Brigade at Gen. GRANT'S headquarters. Meanwhile, the provost guard for this army will be composed, it is said, of the Third, Eleventh, and Fourteenth U. S. Infantry, and one cavalry and one engineer regiment not yet named.

HENRY H. YOUNG.

FROM GEN. SHERIDAN.

Splendid Condition of his Troops—300 Rebel Prisoners and 3,000 Negroes at White House—Our Entire Force Across the Pamunkey—Longstreet Thought to be in that Vicinity.

FORTRESS MONROE, Monday, March 20.

Major COMPTON, of the Eighth New-York Cavalry, accompanied by Capt. MOORE, of Gen. SHERIDAN'S Staff, and several other officers, and the principal scouts of SHERIDAN'S army, arrived here last evening on the steamer Matilda direct from the White House, en route to Washington, with seventeen battle flags, most of which were captured near Waynesboro, in the battle with Gen. EARLY'S forces. Gen. SHERIDAN'S troops are in the very best condition, and appear to have suffered little or nothing from the effects of their long march from Winchester. About 300 rebel prisoners are now at the White House, together with some 3,000 negroes, who followed our troops as they passed through the country.

A large number of prisoners were captured during the raid, but owing to the rapidity of SHERIDAN'S movements many of them had to be abandoned, and others made their escape owing to the relaxed vigilance of their guards, who were glad to get rid of them. The entire cavalry force has crossed to the south bank of the Pamunkey River, and is now engaged in recruiting, preparatory to new movements.

The rebel Gen. LONGSTREET, with his corps, is supposed to be lurking in the vicinity of the White House; for on the evening of the arrival of SHERIDAN at that place, frequent skirmishes occurred between his advanced pickets and unknown small squads of the enemy, who appeared to be prowling about for reconnoitering purposes.

The steamer J. W. Everman arrived here to-day from Moorhead City, N. C. She brings no later advices from either SHERMAN'S or SCHOFIELD'S armies.

AFFAIRS AT ALBANY.

Prospects of the New-York Health Bill—Members Studying the Subject on its Merits—Information Wanted.

ALBANY, Saturday, March 18.

How properly to dispose of the important bills from New-York City is the question which now engages much of the attention of members of the Assembly. The Committee on Public Health are more than ever awake to the responsibility of their position in regard to the important question that has been submitted to their consideration. Fortunately, also, a majority of that committee have at length resolved to act independently. They have just adopted a resolution, by which, if they abide until another week, so that there shall be opportunity, they will report the Metropolitan Health Bill, which has passed the Senate, favorably. They will recommend several amendments to the bill in their report. First, they will favor having five commissioners; second, they will favor paying them each a salary of twelve hundred dollars; third, they will favor removing from the bill the clause forbidding the commissioners to hold any other office of trust. It will be seen that these amendments do not affect the fundamental principle of the bill, and are not therefore specially objectionable, otherwise they may tend to delay the bill's passage.

If once this measure is brought fairly and fully before the Assembly, and the main principle becomes understood, and a line of action is resolved upon, I do not think any of these propositions to amend will materially affect the result. A point of importance to be noticed here, in reference to this and other prominent measures, is the political aspect they are made to assume as the session draws toward a close. Some members are anxious to caucus with regard to them, and others persistently decline to do so. It is probable that this political agitation will only have the effect to draw the attention of members to the merits of the measures themselves, more than would otherwise have been done. I learn that it is already having this effect with regard to the Health Bill. Members have in their possession the published remarks of Dr. STEPHEN SMITH, which were delivered before the Assembly Health Committee some weeks since, and they are reading this publication. Dr. SMITH tells the whole story of the crowded tenement-houses, the filth and the diseases of New-York. Some of the members are getting a knowledge of the facts from these statements, and are waking up to the merits of the Health Bill. They are becoming convinced that something should be done.

And here comes in a practical and important point, to which I wish I could call the attention of all the friends of this health measure. Members here do not know, much less can they be supposed to appreciate, the fundamental difference between the two plans proposed to change the sanitary condition of New-York. That one plan is to leave New-York health matters to the officials of the city, and that the other is to take such control away from these officials and intrust it to commissioners amenable only to State authority, and entirely independent of political support in New-York City, is a fact which has not been brought distinctly before the minds of all the Assemblymen. A mass of other business to be attended to, the misrepresentation of interested parties, and petitions coming in for "Dr. SATER'S Health Bill,"—all of these tend to mystify the minds of gentlemen upon this subject. The result is that they think something should be done "but what?" As if the "what" had not been carefully studied and fully set forth by gentlemen of eminent abilities, who have made the subject a special study. One affirmation is just as good as another to him who knows not the ground on which either affirmation rests. Here is the danger. Petitions, assertions, talk, must control members in regard to measures which they have not time to examine. If members now could be induced to read a clear statement of the fundamental difference between the Metropolitan Health Bill and the bill drawn up by Dr. SATER; if they could be led to see clearly that which they have seen but dimly thus far, efficient legislation in this direction would, I think, be placed beyond a peradventure. Without being positive that any particular form would be adopted as the required measure, it is safe to say that the right basis would in that case be adopted. Renovation, and not a tinkering up called reform, is essential in New-York sanitary matters. Members admit this proposition, but do not distinctly perceive its application to the health question.

INQUIRE FOR THE DUPLEX ELLIPTIC SKIRT

THE NEWEST AND BEST

PATENT CRINOLINE YET INVENTED.

PATENT FLEXIBLE SPRING SKIRT.

This invention entirely dispenses with the old and disagreeable manner of fastening by Gum, Glue and Rivets, and consists of a new and useful manner of securing the tapes and wires together, by means of a cord passing under and through the tape, and through and round the covering of the wire, thereby forming a knot, rendering it the most perfect fastening yet discovered. The wire used is made from the best refined watch-spring steel, and by the peculiar manner of construction the necessary flexibility, without sacrificing any of the strength which it is well known a single bar has over a plurality of bars covering the same surface; and the covering of the wire used in this Skirt is a fine double-thread cotton yarn, the tape a 2-inch extra heavy solid edge, the pads or covering of the ends of the bustle springs are of the finest enameled kid; and with our new application will obviate the difficulty of bending the bustle springs when worn the same as a whole or continued spring, thereby keeping the front of the skirt fitting closely and neatly to the form. We claim that for superiority of materials it is not excelled, and for beauty of shape and durability it has no equal. After a careful and thorough examination, the Bon Ton Patent Flexible Spring Skirts are now being adopted and sold by many of the leading houses throughout the country, and among others that of A. T. MISCELLANEOUS.

TURKISH BATHS.

NO. 13 LAIGHT-ST., NEW-YORK,

Second door from St. John's Park, near Canal-st.

The TURKISH BATH has been truly pronounced by those who have taken it, to be the "greatest luxury a person can enjoy;" the most perfect means of cleansing and purifying the body, both internally and externally." In removes the wrinkles of care and age, makes the bather appear and feel both younger and stronger, and renders the complexion clearer, fresher and more beautiful.

"When the cooling is complete, the body has come forth shining like alabaster, fragrant as the cistus, sleek as satin, and soft as yet'ret. The touch of the skin is electric. At the conclusion of the process, the principles of the skin returns, the fountains of strength are opened; you seek again the world and its toils; and those who experience these effects for the first time, exclaim: 'I feel as if I could jump over the moon!'"—From a description of the Turkish Bath by Dr. David Urquhart.

"The Bath which cleanses the inward as well as the outward man, which is adapted to make health healthier and alleviate disease whatever its stage or severity, deserves to be regarded as a national institution, and merits the advocacy of all men. In the bath the skin acquires color, freshness, firmness, and elasticity; it loses the muddy and faded hues of ill-health, and the parched and arid dryness and wrinkled aspect of infirmity and age. The inhabitant of a large city would live as healthily immersed within the city walls as amid the fields and meadows of the country. His bath would be to him in the place of a country house, of a horse—it would give him air, exercise, freshness, health, and life. The Turkish Bath cannot give cold."—Erasmus Wilson, F. R. S.

"No man can be called clean till he has bathed in the East. Let him walk directly from his accustomed bath and self-friction with towels to the Turkish bath, and the interval will be found to be a dreamy void. How long time since you have been bathed?" Thus we live in perfect repose till mind and body are drowned in delicious rest, and we no longer remember what we are. Gently sleep lies upon our senses. As gently the clouds dissipate, and we are born again into the world. We rise, put on our garments, and walk forth into the streets, instinct with new and more perfect life."—Bayard Taylor.

"It increases instead of exhausting the strength, and by exciting the vital action of the skin, gives rise to a power of reaction which enables it to resist cold much better than before."—Dr. Andrew Combe.

☞ Strangers visiting New-York should not leave the city without enjoying the greatest of Eastern luxuries—a genuine Turkish Bath.

WAR DEPARTMENT, PROVOST-MARSHAL-GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8, 1865.

CIRCULAR NO. 5.—In connection with the Proclamation of the President herewith published, all officers and employés of this Bureau are instructed to give prompt attention to the receiving and forwarding of such deserters as present themselves in accordance with its provisions.

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas the twenty-first section of the Act of Congress, approved on the third instant, entitled "An act to amend the several acts heretofore passed to provide for the enrolling and calling out the national forces, and for other purposes," requires, that in addition to the other lawful penalties of the crime of desertion from the military or naval service, all persons who have deserted the military or naval service of the United States who shall not return to said service, or report themselves to a Provost-Marshal within sixty days after the Proclamation hereinafter mentioned, shall be deemed and taken to have voluntarily relinquished and forfeited their rights of citizenship and their rights to become citizens; and such deserters shall be forever incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under the United States, or of exercising any rights of citizens thereof; and all persons who shall hereafter desert the military service and all persons who, being duly enrolled, shall depart the jurisdiction of the district in which he is enrolled, or go beyond the limits of the United States, with intent to avoid any draft into the military or naval service, duly ordered, shall be liable to the penalties of this section. And the President is hereby authorized and required forthwith, on the passage of this act, to issue his proclamation setting forth the provisions of this section, to which proclamation the President is requested to notify all deserters returning within sixty days as aforesaid, that they shall be pardoned on condition of returning to their regiments and companies, or to such other organizations as they may be assigned to, until they shall have served for a period of time equal to their original term of enlistment.

Now, therefore, be it known that I, ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President of the United States, do issue this my Proclamation, as required by said act, ordering and requiring all deserters to return to their proper posts; and I do hereby notify them that all deserters who shall, within sixty days from the date of this Proclamation, viz., on or before the 19th day of May, 1865, return to service, or report themselves to a Provost-Marshal, shall be pardoned, on condition that they return to their regiments and companies, or to such other organization as they may be assigned to, and serve the remainder of their original terms of enlistment, and, in addition thereto, a period equal to the time lost by desertion.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this eleventh day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand (L. S.) eight hundred and sixty-five, and of the independence of the United States the eighty-ninth.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President: WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

The records and returns of those deserters will be made up in the same manner as is provided for in other cases by existing regulations, except that it will be noted on the book of deserters arrested, opposite the name of deserter, the fact of his having availed himself of the President's Proclamation; and the date of his surrendering himself to be separately stated on the report to this office.

The Secretary of War directs that no reward be paid for the arrest of deserters who may be arrested subsequent to the receipt of this order by the District Provost-Marshals.

THE FOLLOWING "OPINION" IS PUBLISHED for the information of the public.

RICHARD I. DODGE,
Major 12th Inf., A. A. P. M. Gen.

OPINION.

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OFFICE, Feb. 9, 1865.

SIR: In your letter of the 28th January, you ask my opinion on the legal points presented in the letter of Gov. A. G. Curtin, to you, of date the 25th of January.

Gov. Curtin's letter is in relation to the construction of the Act of Congress, approved 3d March, 1863, commonly called the Enrollment Act. He insists—

1. That the words "periods of service," since the commencement of the rebellion, as used in the 13th section of the act do not require the President, in assigning the quotas to the several States, to take into consideration the whole term of enlistment of the volunteer and militiamen; and

2d. That that part of the Act of the 3d of March, 1863, which makes the period of service an element in the calculation necessary to determine the number of men due from a State, district, county or town, has been repealed by the second section of the Act amendatory of the Enrollment Act, approved 24th February, 1864.

It will be more convenient to consider these questions in the reverse order, inasmuch as if it shall be found that the repeal has been made, as contended for, the first point made by the Governor need not be considered.

The great objects of the Enrollment Act are:

1st. To declare who shall constitute the national forces, and,

2d. To organize a plan by which the national forces can be made available.

Subordinate to the purpose of raising and organizing the national forces, the plan adopted by Congress shows a desire that the draft upon the industrial population of the several States, and the communities thereof, should be equalized as nearly as practicable.

By the 4th section of the act of the 3d of March, 1863, the United States are divided into districts, of which the District of Columbia shall constitute one, each territory of the United States shall constitute one or more as the President shall dir ct, and each Congressional District of the respective States, as fixed by a law of the State next preced g the enrollment, shall constitute one. The 5th section provides that there shall be a Board of Enrollment in each District. By the 9th section, it is provided that if the Board of Enrollment shall deem it necessary, a district may be divided into two, and with the assent of the Secretary of War, into any greater number of sub-divisions.

By the 12th section, it is made the duty of the President, in assigning to the Districts the number of men to be furnished therefrom, to take into consideration the service of volunteers and militia furnished by and from the several States, and which said District, during the present and the period of their service since the commencement o the present rebellion, and shall so make said assignment as to equalize the numbers among the Districts of the several States, considering and allowing for the numbers already furnished as aforesaid, and the time of their service.

It is evident, from the face of this Act, that the several States and Districts had furnished a number of volunteers and militia, and for periods of service.

The first duty of the President was to ascertain what number of volunteers and militia had been furnished from the several States, and the periods of their service since the commencement of the rebellion; and then, from what districts in the several States the same, that he might equalize the numbers among the districts of the several States, considering and allowing for the numbers already furnished as aforesaid, and the time of their service. Under the act of the 3d of April, 1863, it is plain that he had no right and power to cut up a district into counties, townships, precincts or wards, in order to equalize the draft therein. The authority given in the 9th section to sub-divide a district was for the purpose of facilitating or expediting the enrollment, and with no reference to equalization. It might, and doubtless did happen in many districts, that one well defined portion of a district, as a county, township or ward, had furnished a greater number than their share, or less than their share, from, whilst other parts of the same district, equally well defined, had furnished a few or none, thereby making a draft upon the district necessary; and yet, under the act, it was not in the power of the President to make the draft otherwise than equal over the whole district. This was unjust and oppressive. In order to correct this flagrant hardship and injustice, Congress, by the 3d section of the Act of 24th February, 1864, and which is an amendment of the Act of 3d of March, 1863, declared that the quota of each ward of a city, town, township, precinct or election districts, or of a county where the county is not divided into wards, townships, precincts or election districts, shall be, as nearly as possible, in proportion to the number of men resident therein liable to military service, taking into account, as far as practicable, the number which has been previously furnished therefrom.

It is earnestly insisted, and most ingeniously argued that this 3d section of the amended Act repeals so much of the 13th section of the Act of the 3d of March, 1863, as makes it the duty of the President to take into consideration the period of service of the volunteers and militia from the several States. The argument in favor of the repeal is substantially upon the words of the amendatory Act—"the number which has been previously furnished therefrom." It is insisted that "number," as here used means an arithmetical count. I cannot so understand it.

The act of the 3d of March, 1863, had prescribed a mode of which the number of men due from the several States, and the several districts of the several States, should be ascertained; and this mode required, per a late decision of this Department, the consideration of a period of service of men previously furnished. Congress used the word number in the second section of the Amendatory Act, understanding that the mode of count prescribed in the original act would be preserved.

There are many evidences upon the face of the amendatory act which show that it was not the intention of Congress to change the mode of count prescribed in the original act.

The amended Act does not undertake to say how the quota of a state or district is to be ascertained. In ascertaining what number is due from a State or district, the President must pursue the mode prescribed in the 12th section of the original Act—he must take into consideration the period of service; and yet, under the construction insisted upon, when he comes to equalize the draft, as authorized to do by the amended Act, in the districts, he must be controlled by simple numbers. It cannot be that Congress intended one mode of count for the States and districts, and a different and wholly inconsistent one for the subdivisions of districts. Inextricable confusion would result.

From the language used in various parts of the Amendatory Act, it is evident that Congress did not intend to disturb the mode of count prescribed in the original act. For instance, in the eighth section of the Amendatory Act, it is said that the town, ward, or township shall be credited by its services, and in the seventh section, "the period for which he shall have been enlisted," and "the period for which he shall have been drafted," all going to show that time of service was held to be an element in the count.

Nor do I think that the argument in favor of the repeal is aided by the language of the 1st section of the act, entitled "An act further to regulate and provide for the calling out the national forces," approved 4th July, 1864. The act says, that "any such volunteer, or in case of draft, as hereinafter provided, any substitute, shall be credited to the town," &c. Congress meant that the credit should be given according to the mode of count prescribed in the act of 3d March, 1863.

The whole purpose of the second section of the Amendatory Act was to enable the President to equalize the draft in the several districts, surely not to have one mode of count prescribed in ascertaining the quotas of the several States and districts, and another mode for equalizing the districts. Besides, it is hardly to be considered that Congress would thus incidentally strike from so important a statute a feature so prominent and equitable.

I am, therefore, of the opinion that the mode of ascertaining and assigning to States and districts their respective quotas, as prescribed in the twelfth section of the act of the 3d of July, 1863, is not repealed, and that the same mode must be pursued in equalizing the draft among the subdivisions of each district.

Next comes the question, what is the mode of count prescribed in the twelfth section of the act of 3d March, 1863?

It is very plain that Congress regarded that a consideration of the period of service would change the rule from a merely numerical one. Some credit was to be given for the period of service, as well as for the man. Congress has fixed various periods of service, and States and districts, and fractions of districts, had furnished men for those periods of service. Now, how is the credit to be given?

Before proceeding to answer the question, it may be proper to state, that it is insisted that the words "period of time" and "time of service," as used in the twelfth section of the act of March 3, 1863, means something different from term of service. It seems to me that the phrases mean one and the same thing. When the word term is used in reference to time, it is, according to the lexicographers, very nearly the synonym of period. The difference betwixt them, if any, is too uncertain and shadowy to believe that Congress meant by the use of one something different from what is understood by the other. But the words period and term both occur in after parts of the act now under consideration. In the 18th section of the act of 1863, the term of service is spoken of, and the term of reënlistment, whilst in the 7th section of the amended act, it is the period for which he shall have enlisted, and the period for which he shall have been drafted. Thus it will be perceived, that upon the very face of these acts, Congress used these words as meaning the same thing. It happens too in the act, that neither word may be used and yet the same idea intended, as in the 9th section of the amended act, where the language is "shall be credited by his service."

Regarding, then, "period of service," and "term of service," as meaning the same thing, any argument predicated upon a difference must be disregarded. And thus we are brought back to the question, how is the credit to be given? Must the credit be for the time of actual service, or the period of enlistment?

I think that Congress intended, by the words "period of service," to give credit for the time of his enlistment. When a man enlists in the service of the Government for one, two, or three years,

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Passengers from City Point who arrived in Washington yesterday, say that SHERMAN had been joined by SCHOFIELD, and had occupied Goldsboro without opposition. This news came through SHERMAN'S scouts, who left him some time last week. The Richmond Sentinel, of Monday, has a report that four divisions of SHERMAN'S army were repulsed near Fayetteville on the 17th. Our own Government, however, has later information, showing that instead of being repulsed, SHERMAN is still pursuing his triumphant march. The result of the battles in front of Kinston last week will not be far from 2,000 killed, wounded and prisoners on our side, and all of 3,000 on the enemy's side, whose dead outnumber ours five to one.

All is quiet thus far in Gen. GRANT'S army, but there are signs of work ahead at no distant day. Yesterday the War Department suspended the granting of passes to civilians to visit the army and a large number of sutlers arrived in Washington. Three deserters were executed on Saturday, in the Army of the Potomac: JOHN SMITH, Eighth New-Jersey; J. J. MCNALLY, alias Joseph Johnson, and BAKER, alias James Weaver, both of the First Maryland—the last two at City Point. DELEVAN DEVOE, of the Eighteenth New-York, was to have been shot, but his sentence was commuted to imprisonment during the war.

Officers who accompanied SHERIDAN on his grand raid, say that his troops are in splendid condition, having suffered but a mere trifle in their rapid march from Winchester to White House. At the latter place there are about 300 rebel prisoners and 3,000 negroes, who followed our troops in. A great many more prisoners were taken on the route, but were let off or escaped. SHERIDAN'S men are now on the south bank of the Pamunkey, resting and preparing for another spell of rough riding. It is suspected that LONGSTREET is somewhere near White House, watching SHERIDAN'S movements.

The declaration made by JEFF. DAVIS in his message, that "an interview with Gen. LONGSTREET was asked for by Gen. ORD," to the end that an interview might be had between Gens. GRANT and LEE, is in part and whole a deliberate falsehood. The truth is, an interview with Gen. ORD was solicited by Gen. LONGSTREET, at the request of Gen. LEE. Gen. GRANT not being authorized to act as a peace commissioner, except in a military way, declined the interview.

Maj. COMPTON, of the Eighth New-York Cavalry, reached Washington on Monday, in charge of seventeen rebel battle-flags captured by SHERIDAN'S men at the battle of Waynesborough. Each flag was borne by the captor thereof. The trophies were presented to the War Department, and the men, by request of Gen. CUSTER, have furloughs, all their back pay and medals of honor.

Trains on the Louisville and Nashville Road travel in perfect safety from Nashville to the State line, but thence to Louisville they are frequently assailed by guerrillas. The road is well guarded in Tennessee, but neglected in Kentucky.

The oldest officer now in our army is Adjutant G. PEACOCKE, whose commission bears date March 31, 1783.

Six guerrillas were captured on the 13th by citizens outside the lines near Memphis, and brought in and lodged in Irving prison.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, the following bills were passed: The New-York County Tax Levy; the Bushwick-avenue Improvement Bill; extending time for the completion of the Central Park and Grand Hotels, New-York; incorporating the University Club of New-York; authorizing Gas Light Companies to lay pipe along turnpike and plank-roads; incorporating the New-York College of Dentistry; the New-York Pneumatic Railroad and Express Company Bill, and to provide means for paying the bounties authorized by law.

FOREIGN NEWS.

The City of London arrived yesterday, with Queenstown dates to the 9th. The English papers were anxiously discussing the effect of the fall of Charleston, and reluctantly confessing that the rebel cause was fast becoming hopeless. The probabilities of trouble between England and the United States were another topic of leading editorials. The trouble in the iron-making districts of England will probably throw 70,000 persons out of employment. Parliamentary business is unimportant. M. DE MONTHOLON has been appointed French Minister at Washington, and M. DANO Minister at Mexico. The Pall Mall Gazette says that, in conformity with public opinion in France, the Emperor NAPOLEON will leave Mexico to her destiny as soon as the French troops have returned. There was a rumor, however, that a reinforcement of 5,000 troops was to be sent shortly to Mexico. The answer of Austria to the Prussian dispatch relative to the Duchies had reached Berlin. Report says that Austria declares the proposals of Prussia entirely unfitted to be the basis for further negotiations. A new ministry had been formed in Portugal with the Duke DE SOULE as President of the Council and Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the Marquis DE SA DA BANDIERA as Minister of War.

GENERAL NEWS.

The extraordinary floods which have done such extensive damage in New-York and Pennsylvania, have greatly subsided, and travel begins to assume tolerable regularity. The Erie road has now but one gap, between Chemung and Addison, and that will soon be repaired. The Pennsylvania and the Northern Central roads are in working order. The New-York Central is also running trains as usual. Our exchanges are filled with accounts of inundated valleys and towns, and the wide-spread destruction of moveable property which followed. The oil region of Pennsylvania and the valley of the Susquehanna appear to have suffered most severely.

To prevent goods from being sent into the enemy's lines by land or water, by means of fraudulent permits, Gen. WASHBURNE has issued an order which prohibits permitting of goods to go beyond the line of occupation, except persons who actually come from beyond such lines, and bring in cotton and other produce, and dispose of the same to Government purchasing agents.

The mill for the manufacture of wicking and wadding, at Greenville, Conn., owned by Norgen, CONVERSE & Co., and occupied by C. H. COLT of Meriden, was badly damaged by fire early Saturday morning. Loss on the building $30,000, insured for $6,000. The loss on the stock is also large.

An important general order from Gen. POPE is published, which is the first step toward giving practical effect to the views of his recent letter to the Governor of Missouri. It directs that as soon as information shall be received from Gov. FLETCHER of the reestablishment of the courts and civil authority in any county or district, the promiscuous exercise of martial law there shall cease; Provost-Marshals will be immediately released from all duties except those strictly military.

On December 27th, 1862, GEORGE W. EVANS, a well-known butcher of Allegheny, Penn., while crossing the track of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, was knocked off the road by a train. He brought suit, and the jury rendered a virdict of $5,500 against the road on Wednesday.

LOCAL NEWS.

There were enthusiastic and largely attended meetings last evening in many of the wards of the city for the purpose of instituting means whereby the quota may be filled without resorting to the draft or calling upon those to serve whom the wheel of fortune last week presented as conscripts. Spirited addresses were made and heavy amounts were subscribed to be used in increasing the bounty-money to recruits. If the movement is continued with anything like the energy with which it has been inaugurated, there is little to fear that the draft will be avoided.

The number of deaths in this city during the past week was 453—95 men, 85 women, 150 boys, and 122 girls, being a decrease of 25 as compared with the previous week, and of 45 as compared with the corresponding week of last year. The mortality by the principal diseases was as follows: Consumption 63, marasmus 25, convulsions 49, croup 16, diphtheria 10, scarlet fever 22, typhoid fever 16, inflammation of the lungs 36, small-pox 19. The deaths from small-pox during several weeks past have averaged 30 per cent.

The association has adopted the designation of "The Typothetæ."

The Live Stock markets this week have been only very light supplied with most kinds of animals. The arrivals of Beef Cattle are less than during a week for a number of years past. These limited receipts are entirely owing to the obstructions to transportation, caused by the late destructive freshets. Plenty of cattle are on the way, and under ordinary circumstances would have been here. The cattle back are now at Syracuse and west of that place. Many are at Buffalo, where they are collecting, as the roads west of that place are free from detention. There has been a general advance in prices, which cannot last longer than this week, at most, for as soon as the damages to the railroads can be repaired live stock will be hurried in from all directions, and butcher's animals, like all other commodities, must go down. The receipts this week are 2,425 beef cattle, 164 milch cows, 759 veal calves, 5,561 sheep and 1,908 live hogs. The prices of beef cattle have ranged at 22c.@24c. ℔ lb., estimated live weight, for the best offered; common to good 17c.@21c., and 12c.@16c. for the lower grades.

Produde and merchandise were dull, lower, and irregular yesterday. Flour fell off 15c.@25c. ℔ barrel; Wheat, 8c.@10c.; Oats, 5c.@6c. ℔ bushel; Cotton, 2c.@3c. ℔ lb.; Whisky, 3c., and Petroleum 2c. ℔ gallon. New Mess Pork was sold down to $24 25, and up again to $28 50 ℔ barrel. Freights, dull.

There was a further decline of five or seven per cent. in the Gold speculation yesterday, and increased depression in the Railways at the Stock Exchange. The Government Stocks were also sold down at the early Board, but subsequently reacted under a free demand at the reduced figures.

The Situation in North Carolina.

We do well, perhaps, to receive with allowance the statement of passengers that arrived yesterday at Washington from City Point, bringing reports, without date, as second-hand from SHERMAN'S army. These reports, which we publish in another column for what they are worth, would make it appear that scouts sent forward last week by Gen. SHERMAN (to Kinston, we presume,) were in a position to announce positively the arrival of our forces at Goldsboro without opposition.

The reasons for regarding this news as premature are various. SHERMAN only left Fayetteville on his northward journey on Tuesday last. The distance to Goldsboro, as the crow flies, is fully fifty miles. By the roads SHERMAN would be compelled to march, the distance cannot be less than sixty or sixty-five miles. Marching at the rate of twelve miles a day, he could only reach Goldsboro on Sunday morning. It would take the scouts a full day to make Kinston, and two days more at least to reach City Point by transport. So that the dates fail altogether to correspond with the possibilities of the situation. The earliest time fixed by military judges for the junction of SHERMAN'S main army with SCHOFIELD'S force was Monday, the 20th. And the latest direct news from Kinston, we think, would indicate that SCHOFIELD may have reached Goldsboro at least one day or so in advance of his chief.

It is clear that after the battle of Kinston, in which BRAGG lost fully three thousand in killed, wounded and missing, that General made no halt of any importance between Kinston and Goldsboro. If we leave out of account the concurrent testimony of Union refugees, which represents BRAGG'S North Carolina troops as deserting in squads, and returning to their homes, leaving him only a decimated and demoralized force to oppose the progress of SCHOFIELD—there are two strong, and all but conclusive proofs that, if SCHOFIELD'S cue was to make for Goldsboro, his army has been practically unopposed in its march. The first of these proofs is that there was no fighting near Kinston, between Friday, the 10th, and Thursday, the 16th. The second is, that even if BRAGG had left sufficient force to oppose SCHOFIELD'S advance, the rebel General, in delaying a junction with HARDEE and JOHNSTON, ran the extreme risk of being cut off by SHERMAN'S striking the line of the North Carolina Railroad, at Smithfield, or some point northwest of Goldsboro; that is, reasoning from the fact which seems to be tolerably well confirmed, that the headquarters of the rebel army in North Carolina are at Raleigh.

On the day then, that SHERMAN renewed his march (the 14th,) it is probable that JOHNSTON'S main army was at Raleigh, and BRAGG'S in the neighborhood of Goldsboro, both equidistant from SHERMAN'S starting point—Fayetteville—and each point as likely as the other to turn out to be SHERMAN'S objective, so far as his movements could, at that date, be divined by the rebel Commanders. If JOHNSTON or LEE—for the two are said to have been in council at Raleigh—determined to check SHERMAN at Goldsboro, they would have to move their forces as far and as fast as that General. This they could possibly do thus: if the North Carolina Railroad, which connects Goldsboro with Raleigh, was workable. But in that case, as in dozens of others, SHERMAN'S forecast would stand him in good stead, and his army would quietly strike the road in the rebel rear, cut JOHNSTON'S communication with Raleigh, and, most undoubtedly, outflank him.

The chances, however, favor the conclusion that JOHNSTON has ventured no such experiment as this, and that our main army has, by this time, united with SCHOFIELD'S force, at or near Goldsboro; and will pursue its northward march with an energy which will be found altogether irresistible.

A LITTLE GOOD ADVICE—GRATIS.—As Parson BROWNLOW is now Governor of Tennessee, it is greatly to be desired that he should make some attempt to infuse a little moderation into his language and demeanor. A great many things that were pardonable in the persecuted East Tennessean loyalist, really do not look very becoming in the highest civil functionary of the State, and we would, therefore, earnestly entreat the Parson, if only for the sake of the cause for which he has suffered so much, to make a thorough revision of his manner of expressing himself. The public both North and South is now familiar with his sentiments on the subject of secession and the war, as well as with regard to his rebel neighbors, and we believe we express the opinion of the best portion of the community when we say that nothing that Gov. BROWNLOW can add to what he has already said about them could increase our abhorrence of these persons and their doings. The loyalists whom they plundered and outraged while secession was in the ascendent, are now bringing actions against them in the civil courts, and are obtaining heavy damages against them; and quite right, say we; but we think there is no occasion for the Governor to comment on the matter in this style:

"Impoverish the villains—take all they have—give their effects to the Union men they have crippled and imprisoned—and let them have their 'Southern rights.' They swore they would carry on the war until they exhausted their last little negro and lost their lands. Put it to them, is our advice, most religiously—fleece them, and let them know how other men feel when robbed of all they have! Let them be punished—let them be impoverished—let them be slain—and after slain, let them be damned!"

We should not object to this sort of talk so much if the Parson's expressions had ever been remarkable for feebleness. But all those who are familiar with his literary compositions can testify that this has never been one of their defects. And we think now that he has been made Governor of the State, all parties would be gainers if he were to endeavor to make his articles and letters a little more "milk and watery." This war is not going to last always, and when it ends, there will be in every State in the South a large number of persons who have helped, in one way or other, either to bring it about or carry it on, as well as others who have been from the first opposed to it, and have suffered for their Unionist opinions. Now everybody who loves the Union party ought, so far from seeking to keep alive the flame of animosity between these two classes of persons, to do everything in his power to extinguish it. A strong desire for revenge will, of course, reign for a good while in the breasts of the victorious party, but he must be a poor patriot, as well as poor Christian, who will do or say anything to help them to gratify it. And the business of every man who finds himself in an official position at the South hereafter, is, before all other things, to wipe out, as far as he can, the memories of the war. So the less said about "fleecing," and "slaying," and "damning" the better, particularly by Governors.

THE ONWARD MARCH OF THE UNION ARMIES.—The armies of the nation have advanced, within the last ten months, in prodigious strides, toward fulfilling that duty which President LINCOLN so simply, but comprehensively laid down four years ago—the repossession of the seaports, forts, arsenals and territory of the nation, wrested away by insurrectionary forces. If the Richmond Confederacy, however, keeps on much longer in its present course of advancing backward, it will reduce itself to a single State. Within the brief period already mentioned, the line of the Ocmulgee, the line of the Oconee, the line of the Ogeechee, the line of the Savannah, the line of the Edisto, the line of the Santee, the line of the Great Pedee, and finally the line of the Cape Fear—all great rivers, forming the water-sheds of three great States, stretching between the Blue Ridge and the Atlantic—have been successively announced by authority as the Southwestern defensive line of the Confederacy, successively fortified as well as time allowed, and successively abandoned. Now, at last, in obedience to that compulsory retreat, which, by a polite euphemism, is called the "policy of concentration," the line of the Cape Fear has been abandoned for the line of the Neuse. Even this last water-course bids fair to be abandoned for the line of the Roanoke, on which certain information assures us that elaborate works are going up. Should that also follow the suit of the rest, then "the Western army" of the Confederacy has nothing left but to march "onward to Richmond."

But the magnitude of our past triumphs does not require us to anticipate the future. All the signs portend a resolute halt and a prolonged resistance not far from the present battle-ground.

One effect will certainly follow from this "concentration" of the rebellion. It will decide the pattern of the rebel flag, about which the rebel Congress has been sadly perplexed for some years, and for which any number of new patterns and devices have been proposed and adopted, till its true character is as uncertain as a fashionable lady's dress, six months ahead. The subject will not matter much now—the flag being required for so short a time. But we would remind the next Committee on Colors to choose a lone star, emblamatic of Virginia. History repeats itself, and the symbol of the lone star, once so much admired in the South, will be more than ever appropriate now.

THE PROVISION MARKET.—The wholesale prices of provisions yesterday, as compared with the quotation on the 31st of December last, continue to show an extraordinary decline. Mess pork by the barrel sells for half what it did three months ago. Prime pork is quoted at 80 per cent. below December rates, and cut meats are from 20 to 25 per cent. lower. Butter, taking the average qualities, costs considerably less than half what it did at the close of the year. These, however, are wholesale rates. There is no such reduction of cost to the great body of consumers. In meats, butter and potatoes, there still exists evidence of a combination among petty retailers to extort from their poorer customers profits of the most inordinate character. Until small housekeepers learn to club together for the purpose of wholesale purchases, we see no remedy against illicit trade leagues among the petty dealers.

THE FINANCIAL PANIC.—The anticipated collapse of the rebellion is producing its natural consequence, in the fall of gold. Yesterday gold went down to 154, though it subsequently went up again. This is a fall of fifty per cent. within a month. So sudden and serious a change in the recognized standard of value naturally produces confusion, failure and disaster in every department of business. Even Government securities, like everything else, feel the shock, and yesterday some of the very best Government stocks sold at from eight to twelve per cent. discount. There may be persons who fancy that this state of things is desirable; but nothing, in our judgment, could well be more disastrous. Any great financial crisis, whatever may be its cause, shakes and shatters the whole business fabric of the country. What the country needs is such a gradual decline in the price of gold as will enable all branches of business, public and private, to adapt themselves gradually and safely to the necessities which it creates.

BRITISH PERVERSION OF AMERICAN FACTS.—The malignant and persistent ingenuity with which the leading British newspapers distort every event of the war to the prejudice of the United States, finds fresh illustration with every steamer. At the interview between DAVIS' Peace Commissioners and Messrs. LINCOLN and SEWARD, the suggestion was made by the former that the two armies should unite in the adoption of some "extrinsic policy." The English papers assume, probably, with justice, that this means a foreign war; but instead of holding its authors responsible for it, the blame of it is actually cast upon the Government of the United States. The Times makes it the occasion for one of its characteristic and chronic onslaughts upon Mr. SEWARD; and the Saturday Review, which is habitually and ostentatiously more unscrupulous and unprincipled in its discussion of American affairs than any other English journal can be, finds in the necessities of the rebels an excuse for having made the proposition, and visits all its wrath on the Government of the United States for listening to it! Governments certainly are not responsible for the language and temper of the press; but he must be very silly and short-sighted who does not see that studied and habitual injustice like this will produce a public sentiment against which Governments will be powerless.

A NEW FRENCH MINISTER.—Among the news from Europe which we publish to-day, is the bald announcement that M. DE MONTHOLON has been appointed French Minister at Washington, and M. DANO Minister to Mexico. This disposes of the speculative theories founded on the non-arrival of M. DE CHATEAURENAND, the minister first nominated as the successor of M. MERCIER. The new Ambassador may be presumed, from his residence here in the capacity of French Consul-General, not less than from his more recent position in Mexico, to bring to his new mission at least a familiarity with American continental affairs, which may facilitate his performance of the duties on which he is about to enter. It is a curious coincidence that France should send us a Minister raised from the rank of Consul at New-York, just as we send them one formerly Consul in Paris.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, March 21.

REBEL VICTORY—ON PAPER.

Richmond papers of Monday are as reticent in regard to war news as usual. The Sentinel says, a report was current that a fight had occurred a short distance north of Fayetteville, N. C., between HARDEE and four divisions of SHERMAN'S army, in which our troops were repulsed with heavy loss. It does not vouch for the truth of the report, but assures its readers that they will hear good news very soon.

JEFF. DAVIS TO HAVE THE GOLD.

The Rebel Congress on Saturday, among its very last acts was the passage of the bill empowering JEFF. DAVIS to seize the gold in the banks, for the purchase of supplies. This uses up everything in the State of Virginia, and will put into DAVIS' hands about two millions of gold, equivalent to one hundred and fifty millions of rebel currency.

THE HABEAS CORPUS SUSPENDED.

The Rebel Congress also passed the act suspending the writ of habeas corpus, the Senate having reconsidered its previous action, by which the bill was defeated. Thus, nearly all of JEFF. DAVIS' requirements, as set forth in his last message, have been complied with.

NEWS FROM SHERMAN.

Information received to-night, through an officer who left Kinston on the 17th, is to the effect that Gen. SCHOFIELD was to take up the line of march for Goldsboro on the 20th. The railroad was completed near to the crossing of the Neuse River at Kinston, and the army was well supplied. SCHOFIELD has been in communication for several days. No news of the reported repulse of SHERMAN reached either Newbern or Kinston up to the 17th.

FROM THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

The City Point boat to-day brought no important information from the Army of the Potomac, still all was quiet. Gen. KAUTZ'S cavalry division made a reconnoissance from the right of the Army of the James, on Sunday, in the direction of New-Kent Court-house, and found PICKETT'S infantry division of LONGSTREET'S corps posted with a view of preventing SHERIDAN from passing down to the James River and joining GRANT, but nevertheless SHERIDAN can, if he so chooses, still pass in that direction, for LONGSTREET dare not throw a force so far down the peninsula as to virtually leave the entire Army of the James in his rear.

NO MORE PASSES.

The War Department to-day stopped the issue of all passes to the army for civilians. The exodus of sutlers and bangers-on is great.

CAPTURED FLAGS.

The scene at the War-office, where a score of CUSTER'S gallants presented the Secretary the flags captured in the late cavalry battles of SHERIDAN'S command, was very impressive and affecting, the simple narratives of the men, their bronzed, hardy, veteran appearance, the feeling and pertinent speeches of Secretary STANTON and Senators HARRIS and HOWARD, and, above all, the presence of Gen. CUSTER'S young bride, all conspired to make the occasion one long to be remembered, especially by the gallant soldiers, each of who received he thanks of the country, a medal of honor, and a furlough of thirty days.

Mr. Fagnani.

We have carelessly neglected to mention that Mr. FAGNANI, whose established reputation as an artist is well known both here and in Europe, has returned to New-York, and has his studio at No. 10 Clinton-place. His fine portrait of Mr. CORDEN which was on exhibition at the grand fair of the Sanitary Commission, and is now in possession of the Chamber of Commerce, will be remembered by all who saw it. Mr. FAGNANI spent the most of last Summer in Turkey, where he went, upon invitation, to paint the Sultan and some of the most distinguished members of his court; he painted one, also, of Sir HENRY BULWER. Why does not the Chamber of Commerce order a portrait of JOHN BRIGHT to match that of Mr. CORDEN?

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Mr. MARETZEK'S season ended last evening with the performance of "Don Sebastian," a work which has become a favorite, and which was well rendered on the occasion. We have spoken so frequently of its merits that it is needless to add anything now, except that all the artists were in good voice.

There will be a grand performance of "Don Giovanni" at the Brooklyn Academy of Music to-night, and on Thursday (at our Fourteenth-street establishment) a matinée representation of "Fra Diavolo." This will be the last of Italian opera until September.

NIBLO'S GARDEN.—Miss LUCILLE WESTON commenced a brief engagement at this house Monday evening, playing her celebrated rôles of Isabella and Mme. Vine, in the play of "East Lynne." The best welcome that could be extended to an artist was extended to her. The house was crowded. We have heretofore spoken at length of the play, and need say nothing now except that the addition of Mr. PERE to the cast adds materially to the interest of the piece.

WINTER GARDEN—BENEFIT OF EDWIN BOOTH.—This evening, Mr. EDWIN BOOTH completes his one hundredth night of the performance of Hamlet, and takes his only benefit. This is a triumph, which, as the advertisements very justly state, reflects as much honor on the city whose good taste and refined perception has carried it to this, as on the genius of Mr. BOOTH who achieved it. The house will, of course, on such an occasion, be such as worthily to crown such an unequalled engagement.

THE DRAFT.

EARNEST EFFORTS TO FILL THE QUOTA.

SPIRITED DISTRICT AND WARD MEETINGS.

Large Subscriptions for Increasing Bounties.

"A Long Pull, a Strong Pull, and a Pull Altogether."

Numerous ward-meetings were held last evening, and will be continued to-night, for the purpose of encouraging enlistments and filling the quota. From the spirit of these gatherings it is reasonably fair to believe that should the draft be held in abeyance for a few days recruits in sufficient numbers will be obtained to prevent recourse to it.

It should be remembered that every recruit obtained relieves two persons from draft—a quota man, and also an "additional per cent." man. It is also important to bear in mind that the Provost-Marshal of the district in which the principal is enrolled, is the only officer authorized to muster into the service a substitute for an enrolled or drafted man. No credit will be given for substitutes mustered in in violation of this order. Agents and brokers will be notified to take all substitutes to District Provost-Marshals for muster. This order will have the effect of transferring considerable business from the County Volunteer Committee to the Provost-Marshals.

The result of the spasmodic half-draft sprung upon this city, by way of hint, has, of course, much hindered volunteering. During Monday and yesterday Mr. BLUNT, at the County Committee rooms, in the PARK, swore in about one hundred men, and at the Battery Recruiting Station about forty were obtained during the same period. Mr. BLUNT gives some practical and energetic directions for avoiding the draft. He says, let the citizens take hold of the matter vigorously, as they did in the early days of the war. Let every man who does not want to be drafted close his store or suspend his business for one week, or until he secures by his own personal influence and payment, at least one recruit. If this were heartily done, Mr. BLUNT says with much reason, the city quota would be filled with most satisfactory rapidity. If something of the kind is not done, adds the Supervisor, tersely, it is evident that the citizens prefer to be drafted; and if they do, let them.

Further, says Mr. BLUNT, provided the citizens form such committees of the whole as he recommends, or substantially such, he will furnish the proper funds at the proper places for paying the bounty to their recruits.

Notices are now in preparation to the conscripts in the Fourth District, so far ar drafted, to appear in ten days from date. If the recruits come in fast enough to keep the office employed, well and good; if not, these conscripts will become liable, and the other wards of the district will be drafted. In the Eighth District notices are being issued to persons drafted in the Eighteenth and Twentieth Wards, that if they are wanted they will be notified. So far, recruits have come in fast enough in this district to keep the office busy.

Meeting in the Fifth Ward.

A meeting of substantial citizens of the Fifth Ward, at Laird's Fifth Ward Hotel, last evening, resolved itself into an Association for Filling the Ward Quota, and made Dr. JAMES KENNEDY its President. Pertinent speeches were made by Messrs. A. J. Plumb, S. S. Wyckoff, J. W. Heape, James M. Tuthill, Major J. M. Haggerty, Col. C. M. Murphy and Judge Dennis Quinn.

It was resolved that every citizen of the ward, without regard to political differences, and whether directly concerned in the draft or otherwise, be invited to become an active member of the association and aid in filling the quota, and to the end that citizens may be aroused, it is proposed to hold a mass meeting in the square at the Fifth Ward Hotel, to-morrow evening. Meantime, the association accepts as a recruiting-office the old recruiting quarters at No. 176 Hudson-street, that building having been offered without charge.

The permanent officers of the Fifth Ward Association for Filling the Quota are: Dr. James Kennedy, President; Col. C. M. Murphy, Vice-President; S. S. Wyckoff, Treasurer; J. W. Heape, Secretary.

A Special Committee of Arrangements for the mass meeting on Thursday evening, was appointed, consisting of Col. M. C. Murphy, Judge D. Quinn, Col. George H. Guthrie, Maj. James Haggerty, and J. W. Heape.

After a brief speech by Judge QUINN, the meeting adjourned to this evening at 8 o'clock.

Meeting in the Seventh Ward.

A meeting of the citizens of the Seventh Ward was held at the Seventh Ward Hotel, No. 173 Madison-street, to take prompt action in filling the Government quota. About 350 persons were present. Mr. WILSON SMALL was unanimously elected Chairman, Hon. JOSEPH HOXIE, Vice-President, and GEO. TREWILLIGER, Secretary.

Mr. GARDNER offered a series of resolutions, which were adopted, setting forth that the citizens fully recognized the right of the Government to call for any number of men that might be necessary to crush the rebellion; that they keenly felt that recourse to a draft must bear heavily upon citizens, whose families, in many cases, needed their protection and support; that it was a mutual desire to relieve the drafted, by cooperation in promoting volunteering sufficiently to fill the Ward quota—giving time and money till the work was accomplished—and thus render it unnecessary to call upon those who have been or may be drafted.

Mr. WM. L. ELY, on being introduced, said that the labor of the Ward Committee had resulted in opening a recruiting office at Essex Market, which would commence operations on Wednesday. He felt that the quota would be easily filled, if the citizens would only continue to make strenuous efforts.

The Chairman said he would appoint a committee of twenty-five persons in each of the eleven districts, to carry out the intentions of the citizens in furthering enlistments.

Speeches were made by Hon. JOSEPH HOXIE and NELSON TAYLOR, Esq., when the meeting adjourned.

The Sixth Congressional District.

The meeting to fill the quota of the Ninth and Fifteenth Wards, at Metropolitan Hall, No. 93 Sixth-avenue, last evening, was crowded, earnest, practical and successful. It was called to order at 8 o'clock, and Ex-Alderman CARPP chosen Chairman, with Vice-Presidents as follows: Orison Blunt, E. C. Benedict, J. Flynn, J. Houghtaling, Mathew Fullam, J. W. Fowler, Thomas Lawrence, J. W. Floyd, Washington Murray, Robert Merkle, Col. C. W. Darling, Capt. E. R. Coster, E. V. Black and Abraham Cowles. Secretaries—W. Jarvis Adams, J. Gumbleton, Dr. B. Z. Vosburgh and A. Vredenburgh. After reading the call, the appeal from Maj. DONOS, addressed to Mayor GUNNISS, and a letter from Hon. R. H. MCCURDY, who could not be present but expressed his hearty sympathy in the object of the meeting, an order from Maj. DONOS was read, dated March 22, and directing the district Provost-Marshals to report progress daily to him, such progress to decide the question of a draft.

Capt. COSTER, Provost-Marshal of the district, stated that the drafted man in it will be notified if they are wanted; he hoped they would not be. He also gave the number of men due, viz.: Ninth Ward, 732; Fifteenth, 426; Sixteenth, 640; in all, 1,798 to be raised. The Captain sententiously concluded by saying he supposed this meeting was to raise money enough to secure $100 hand-money each for recruits; that if it was raised the meeting is a success; if not, a failure.

Capt. J. W. FARR remarked that the operations of these two Wards should be made to work in unison with those of the Sixteenth, which has already raised $50 for hand-money for its quota, lest separate Ward proceedings cause rivalry and obstruct the work.

Resolutions were now offered, announcing the duties of the crisis, and authorizing the appointment of a committee of ten from each of the Ninth and Fifteenth Wards, to raise money for filling the quota.

Mr. A. J. CAMPBELL objected to the resolutions, as providing, not men, but money. SINCLAIR TOUSEY followed to the same effect, and wanted the Finance Committee to be also an executive recruiting committee, empowered to do the work in any way they chose. A gentleman here rose and wanted a subscription paper started on the spot. Mr. TOUSEY objected, Capt. FARR, however, explained the pressing want of money, and said that the Sixth Ward had money of $50 had drawn to it thirteen hand money of $50 had drawn to it thirteen out of yesterday's total of nineteen recruits in the district. Mr. A. F. Dow was in favor of a subscription, and offered to head it. Capt. FARR here announced that Mr. M. G. LANE subscribed $50, and Mr. JOHN WILSON at once followed with $100. Great cheering welcomed this initiative, after which Mr. TOURNY said that his objection having no force, he was inclined to withdraw it, and wished his friend Dow had led off in subscribing. Mr. Dow at once rose and said: "Being a modest man, I kept in the background. As I don't like to do less than my neighbors, put my name down for $200. [Much laughter.] The subscription plan was now carried by acclamation, and Capt. FARR calling on Mr. TOURNY, the latter agreed to "keep up" with Mr. Dow. The list of subscriptions now rapidly increased in sums of $200, $100, $50, $10, and so on down to $5, and in a few minutes had reached between $4 000 and $5,000.

Hon. H. J. RAYMOND having entered the room a little before, here rose to express his pleasure in the heartfelt sympathy felt by the meeting for drafted men. (Mr. RAYMOND is one of them,) and subscribed $300, amid loud cheering.

Mr. JOHN WILSON was appointed treasurer of the recruiting fund.

The Chairman now introduced Mr. RAYMOND, who, after alluding to the natural pleasure which he, a drafted man, felt among so many persons sympathizing with him in so practical a manner, said in substance:

I have come to see what the meeting is doing to help us out of this pickle that our patriotism has gotten us into, and I am quite content with what I see thus far. If this meeting is a fair indication of the spirit of the citizens, we need have no fears of a draft. The question I put just now about the money, was asked with reference to three classes of citizens; the rich, who can easily afford to procure substitutes; those whose social situation enables them conveniently to serve in the army, and, thirdly, those who support families respectably by their daily labor, but, being poor, can neither afford to lose their time and serve themselves, nor to hire a substitute. It is upon this last class that the draft weighs intolerably. I hope that the money raised this evening may be specifically appropriated, and used for the relief of this class. Again, this money is to be used as a stimulus to recruiting; as "hand-money." The committee appointed to raise substitutes or volunteers will have to resort to those whose business it is to raise men for the army—to the bounty-brokers. This name is disreputable, and does not bear it are expiating their crimes in prison. I do not mean that the committee should lend themselves to any bad practices, but they must of necessity employ such agencies. They can do it in a legitimate way, and should employ both these professional persons, and all citizens whose help they can obtain.

[Here it was announced that the sum subscribed in the room up to this time was $4,700.]

After alluding to the bright prospects of the Union cause, Mr. RAYMOND summed up the late evidence of the utter discouragement of the rebel leaders, as evidenced in recent Richmond papers, in the Fortress Monroe conference, in the subsequent attempt at a military convention, and in the flight of their pseudo-Vice-President, STEPHENS, to Georgia.

This present draft is merely a measure of precaution. We must have an abundance of men ready for all possibilities, no matter how victorious we are. And in case of any foreign power [at this hint there was immense cheering for some time] seeking to involve us in a war before we have recovered from that now closing, we must be all ready. And I believe that in such a case there would be very few persons seeking to avoid the draft or to send substitutes. [Great cheers.]

After Mr. RAYMOND's speech, which was throughout enthusiastically received, the following committees were appointed to conduct the citizens recruiting business in the Ninth and Fifteenth Wards:

Ninth Ward—W. W. Price, John Kevser, Ignatius Flynn, W. H. Gedney, V. Kibe, J. W. Farr, J. G. Haviland, S. F. Russell, F. A. Ridabock, G. F. Merkle.

Fifteenth Ward—F. A. Conkling, D. Taylor, A. Lent, G. W. Blunt, J. R. Ryer, H. J. Raymond, R. Irwin, R. H. McCurdy, N. Walsh, C. J. Livingston.

To these the officers of the meeting were added. It was understood that the work was to be managed in concert with the committee of the Sixteenth Ward, already operating. As the meeting adjourned, having made a good beginning by raising about $5,000, (the balance being made up after the speech, Mr. RAYMOND offering to be one of six to complete the round sum,) and all being in the best of spirits, and apparently ready for work.

Meeting in the Tenth Ward.

A large meeting of the citizens of the Tenth Ward was held on Monday evening at the Essex Market Court-house. The committee appointed at a former meeting to make arrangements for the formation of a branch recruiting office in the Tenth Ward, reported that they had secured the approval of Maj. DODGE and the County Volunteer Committee, and that a recruiting office would soon be opened in that building.

An executive committee of two from each ward in the Congressional District was appointed to confer with other similar organizations in relation to the payment of hand-money, and other subjects that might come before it.

Meeting in the Eighteenth Ward.

The citizens of the Eighteenth Ward held a meeting at the Grammercy Park Hotel, on Monday evening. Provost-Marshal MANNIERE said the Eighteenth Ward was short about three hundred men; not more. If the ward could raise through its committees about $6,000, and offer additional hand money to the amount of $25 or $30 per man, the deficiency would be made good in a very short time. A mass meeting of the citizens of the ward will be held at the Medical College to-morrow evening.

Meeting in the Twentieth Ward.

A large meeting of the citizens of the Twentieth Ward was held on Monday evening, at the corner of Eighth-avenue and Thirty-third-street, for the purpose of taking measures to fill the quota of that Ward with volunteers.

Mr. D. HARRISON REED was appointed chairman, and called the meeting to order in a few remarks, explaining the object for which the call was issued.

Mr. JOHN V. GRIDLEY made a short speech, in which he said the quota of the ward was 1,159, or nearly twice that of any other ward in the district. He was in favor of forming an organization and filling the quota. He had learned from Mr. BLUNT that the drafted men in the ward could volunteer before having been legally notified, and receive the regular bounty.

Mr. NELSON J. LUCKY said he believed that the entire quota of the Eighth Congressional District could be raised. One difficulty was, that more hand-money was paid in the country than in this city. If a meeting of the monied men of the district was called, sufficient money might be raised to pay a larger sum as hand-money. Now, there were two or three hundred men taken from the city daily, who could be secured if sufficient hand-money could be obtained.

The Chairman suggested that a committee be appointed to confer with the citizens of the Eighteenth and Twenty-first Wards, to take measures to fill the quota of the entire district.

Mr. GRIDLEY said that the other wards of the district had more wealth than the Twentieth Ward, which accounted for the fact that their quotas were so much smaller, their citizens having furnished a large number of substitutes. He believed that much assistance could be obtained from the wealthy men of those wards.

Mr. JOHN REILLY said that the time was short, and the proper method was to organize as a ward. It could not be expected that the other wards would do more than fill their own quotas, and the conference would cause delay.

Mr. LUCKEY moved that two committees be appointed—one to confer with the other wards of the district, and the other to call a mass meeting of the citizens of the Twentieth Ward, which was carried.

Mr. GRIDLEY said he had been informed that a broker would fill the quota of the Ward for $850 for each volunteer, which would require only $150 dollars from each drafted man of the Ward. Many of those drawn could pay the $150, and others would probably enlist before having been notified, receiving the bounty and helping to fill the quota of the Ward. The money, however, would have to be advanced to volunteers, and the bonds of the State received in return. It would be necessary that the wealthy men of the Ward should come forward and take the bonds.

The following committee was appointed to confer with the citizens of the Eighteenth and Twenty-first Wards and the Provost-Marshal of the district: John B. Gridley, Noah A. Childs, John Reilly and Nelson J. Luckey.

Mr. DITTENHOEFER said it would be useless for the committee to confer with the citizens of the other Wards and obtain their aid. To give the committee something practical to do he moved that they be directed to ascertain and determine the best method of filling the quota, and entering into negotiations with any person for that purpose. The motion was carried.

The following committee was appointed to call a mass meeting of the citizens of the Ward on Thursday evening, at the same place: William J. Peck, James G. Dimond, John Weislager, Joseph Pollock, and John McKechnie.

Alderman BAKER said that he would inform those who had been drafted that, by enlisting before notice has been served on them, they would get the bounty and their families would be entitled to relief money; but that the families of those who enlisted out of the Ward would not receive any aid from the Volunteer Relief Committee of the Common Council. Many had recently gone to New-Jersey to enlist, and deprived their families of all aid from the city if they were destitute.

The meeting then adjourned.

Meeting in the Twenty-First Ward.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of citizens of the Twenty-first Ward was held last evening at Robin's Hall, No. 65 West Thirty-third-street, for the purpose of filling the quota of the ward by stimulating enlistments in the army.

Hon. JOHN KELLEY was chosen Chairman. On taking the chair he said that a few days since the Assistant-Provost-Marshal informed him that only about 200 men were required to fill the quota of the Twenty-first Ward. He felt that if a draft was made it would fall heavily on some, and, therefore, in connection with others, he had united in a call for a public meeting. It was for them to determine what was the best course to be adopted to fill the quota.

Col. ELLIOTT F. SHEPARD was appointed Secretary.

On motion of Mr. ESTERBROOK, a committee was appointed to report a plan to carry out the object of the meeting. The following gentlemen composed the committee: Mr. P. ESTERBROOK, D. D. P. MARSHALL and STEPHEN MCCORMICK.

Mr. SAMUEL COMSTOCK made an eloquent speech, in which he said that he had attended the meeting for the purpose of doing what he could to fill the quota of the Ward, and he believed it to be the duty of every citizen in the present crisis to do what he could to aid and support the Government. We have had prophecies time and again that the war would not last sixty days; but now the great heart of the country is prophesying that the rebellion is on its last legs, and that it has nearly reached the long sought "last ditch." The hour is rapidly approaching for the heroes of the Army of the Potomac to strike a blow against the monster rebellion; and our duty now is to aid in filling up the great army by enlisting men to fill up the quota. It was the duty of the citizens to increase the bounty already given by the city and county, and he would suggest that the Twenty-first Ward give one hundred or one hundred and fifty dollars bounty in addition to that already paid. The speaker did not believe that the moneyed men of the Ward would refuse to come forward and provide the necessary funds.

Mr. SPENCER KIRBY, Commissioner of the Board of Enrollment for the Eighth District, was called upon, and made a few remarks, in which he said the original quota of the ward was 526; on the 1st of March, the ward received credits to the number of 260 men, reducing the deficiency to 266 on the 1st of March. He thought that if the citizens of the ward would raise two hundred men, the quota would be filled. From his own knowledge of recruiting he believed that many discharged soldiers, who were exempt, could be obtained. Recently an order has been issued directing that all men raised by a committee of a sub-district, shall be credited to the ward or sub-district in which they are secured. One of the recent reforms in the enlistment of substitutes was, that the principal must visit the Provost-Marshal, and pay the man himself.

Col. STEPHEN R. PINCKNEY made a short speech, advocating the raising of two companies in the ward.

Mr. ESTERBROOK, Chairman of the committee appointed by the meeting, submitted the following plan: That the Chairman appoint a Finance Committee of fourteen, and an Executive Committee of fourteen, to devise ways and means to fill the quota of the ward in the shortest time possible; also the appointment of a Treasurer, who shall take charge of the funds and distribute the same. The report of the committee was accepted and adopted.

RICHARD KELLEY, President of the Fifth National Bank, was appointed Treasurer.

The Chairman appointed the following Finance Committee: A. T. Stewart, Wm. E. Dodge, James M. Jackson, James M. McLean, Marshal Vought, Thomas P. Cooper, Col. LeGrand B. Cannon, Wm. H. Lee, Charles Fox, John H. Sherwood, John Stephenson, John J. Phelps, Charles W. Baker and R. A. Witthaus.

The following Executive Committee was appointed: A. P. Mann, David Wagstaff, Stephen Hyatt, Garrett R. Schuyler, Wm. P. Esterbrook, Henry R. Davis, Edward Stephenson, James W. Orvis, James Brooks, Charles C. Pinckney, James O'Brien, Spencer Kirby, John Murphy and Stephen R. Pinckney.

Collections were solicited toward raising funds for carrying out the objects of the meeting, and the gentlemen present subscribed liberally. One old man, named Bross, arose, and said that he had not much to give toward the cause—he was a poor man, with two sons in the army, and he wished to do something; he would give one dollar. The announcement was received with loud applause, and a gentleman present immediately said he would give ten dollars toward making the old man's subscription one hundred dollars. Other subscriptions followed, and at the adjournment, the one dollar subscription had reached nearly one hundred dollars. The total amount collected last evening was about three thousand dollars. Subscription books will immediately be opened in different sections of the ward for the collection of contributions.

The Executive Committee will meet this evening, at the house of HENRY R. DAVIDS, No. 146 East Twenty-seventh-street.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

Meeting in the Twenty-second Ward.

The citizens of the Twenty-second Ward held a meeting on Monday evening, at National Hall, in Forty-fourth-street, for the purpose of taking measures to have the quota of the ward filled without resorting to a draft.

Col. R. D. GOODWIN called the meeting to order, and nominated Judge CONNOLLY as Chairman. On taking the chair, he made a brief speech, in which he stated the object of the meeting, and said he was proud an opportunity was offered of filling the quota by voluntary enlistments.

On motion of Mr. FLETCHER, a committee was appointed to call a public meeting, for the purpose of aiding the movement to avoid the draft in the Twenty-second Ward. The meeting will be held in a few days.

Inauguration of the Typotheteæ.

At a recent general meeting of master printers of this city, it was decided to organize a permanent association for the general benefit of the trade and the improvement of the typographic art. A constitution was adopted, and the name of "Typotheteæ" was given to the new association. The Executive Committee were directed to make arrangements for the inauguration of the Typotheteæ, and they accordingly engaged Dodworth Hall, No. 806 Broadway, where last evening a large number of gentlemen interested in the improvement and elevation of the art of printing assembled to listen to some very interesting speeches explanatory of the objects of the association, and to pass a few hours in friendly converse and enjoyment. A most appetizing banquet and some excellent music added to the attractions provided by the Committee of Arrangements. The meeting was called to order by Mr. C. A. ALVORD, who briefly explained the objects which the association had in view. The following officers were then elected:

President, C. A. ALVORD; Vice-President, J. W. Oliver; Secretary, Thos. L. DeVinne; Treasurer, R. H. Smith; Directors, P. C. Baker, Robert Craighead, A. C. Martin, George Mantz, John F. Trow, J. F. Baldwin, E. O. Jenkins, J. J. Reed, Henry Ludwig.

The business of the meeting having been disposed of, an adjournment to the well-filled tables was proposed, and the remainder of the evening was passed in social pleasures enlivened by a number of songs and the music of the band.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

ARREST OF BLOCKADE-RUNNERS.—ERNEST W. PRATT and ROBERT GREEN, passengers on the steamer Corsica, which arrived on the evening of the 17th inst. from Nassau, are in custody on charges of being officers of the steamer which furnished the French-rebel ram Stonewall with her armament. The passports of the prisoners were imperfect. It is charged that PRATT was mate, and GREEN steward, of the City of Richmond, which was loaded with arms and fitted out at London, by CRANSHAW, the rebel agent in that city, and cleared from that port on the 3d of January last, for Bermuda, or any of the West India Islands, with the understanding on the part of the prisoners that she was to run the blockade. After leaving London she took on board between sixty and seventy officers and men, and about three hundred barrels of gunpowder and many small arms, at a place called Greenhithe. The regular crew comprised about forty-five officers and men, who went on board at London. The vessel steered for the coast of France, and reached Belle Isle in about seven days, where she met the rebel ram Olinde, (Stonewall,) to which she transferred all the officers and men taken on board at Greenhithe, besides a large quantity of provisions and small arms. The City of Richmond then steamed for Bermuda, anchored in the harbor of St. George, landed some of her provisions and the remainder of her gunpowder, and sailed for Nassau, N. P., where she arrived on the 4th or 5th of March. After remaining in port four days, Capt. SCOTT, of the City of Richmond, ordered the officers and men on shore. The order was enforced by an officer from the town, some difficulty having occurred between the officers and crew and Capt. SCOTT, owing to the manner in which the Captain had discharged the crew from the ship. Capt. SCOTT subsequently gave the vessel into the hands of Capt. DAVIDSON, not a British subject, the agent of the owner, CRANSHAW, and who had come out in the vessel from London. The City of Richmond was still at Nassau when the Corsica left. The prisoners were taken to Gen. DIX's headquarters, and subjected to a rigid examination by Col. LUDLOW, of Gen. DIX's staff. It is not yet known what disposition will be made of them.

AID FOR ESCAPED DESERTERS.—The American Union Commission, having recently received information of the fact that great numbers of deserters from the Southern army were coming into our lines, and many more were deterred from coming by an apprehension either that they would be impressed into the Northern army, be left to homelessness and want, or be exposed to the contempt of Northern people, because of their connection with the rebellion, have determined to meet all such refugees by their agents in Washington and Baltimore, and shield them from the imposition of evil-disposed persons, supply their immediate necessities, secure them of a friendly reception among the Northern people, and procure them such employment as may supply their wants until the close of the war. The Commission appeals to the public for donations of clothing, which may be sent to the agents at Baltimore and Washington, to be given to the deserters in exchange for the uniform of the rebel army, in which they do not wish to appear after passing our lines. Such donations may be sent to No. 14 Bible House, New-York City.

Perry's Moth and Freckle Lotion.

Chloasma, or Mothpatch, (also called Liverspot,) and Lentigo or Freckles, are often very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, for the discolored spots show more plainly on the face of a blonde than of a brunette; but they greatly mar the beauty of either; and any preparation that will effectually remove them WITHOUT INJURING THE TEXTURE OR COLOR OF THE SKIN, is certainly a desideratum. Dr. B. C. PERRY, who has made disease of the skin a specialty, has discovered a remedy for these discolorations, which is at once prompt, infallible and harmless.

PRESIDENT—JAMES DE PEYSTER OGDEN.

TREASURER—EDWARD S. RICH.
SECRETARY—LEWIS BENTON.

Hon. JAMES DE PEYSTER OGDEN, of New-York.
Hon. JAMES WADSWORTH, of James Wadsworth & Co., No. 61 Cedar-st., New-York.
Hon. A. H. LAFLIN, M. C., Herkimer, N. Y.

Hon. LEVI PARSONS, Ex-Judge of the Supreme Court of California, San Francisco.

The property of the company consists of a perpetual lease of about 15,000 acres of oil territory in San Luis Obispo County, California, lying on and near the Pacific Ocean, subject to a royalty to the proprietor of only one-tenth of the oil produced, less a rateable proportion of the expenses of production when pumped.

The titles of this large tract have been approved by Judge Parsons, of San Francisco, and are already vested in the company.

The report of Prof. Silliman and others, who have personally examined the property of this company, states that it is overflowing with petroleum—

"That the Ranches are splendid estates, but their value is in their almost fabulous wealth in the best of oil."

Prof. Silliman, in his report, says:

"During the past year it has fallen to my lot to investigate the oil indications over a large area of country in California. It is difficult to give, even a plain statement of the facts thus observed without seeming to be carried away with enthusiasm, or infected with a spirit of exaggeration, so vast are the areas on which the oil outcrops are found, and so unmistakable the indications which declare its presence.

"When riding all day over the most beautiful grazing and wheat lands, one finds, on a given line of strike, a constantly recurring series of oil springs and great pools of petroleum in various stages of evaporation, from thin oil to thick tar, margined with a mass of tenacious tar, in which cattle are often stalled. The impression made by such facts is far stronger than can be conveyed by words. Familiar with the early history of Oil Creek from 1854, and with the oil regions of Western Virginia and Kentucky, I found all the natural indications of those regions completed, dwarfed by what is laid open to the observer on the face of the earth in this locality.

"Both oil and tar flow spontaneously from the springs, or exist in pools, upon the Pacific Company's estate in notable quantities.

"Measures are in progress to develop immediately the property of the company."

In confirmation of the above, there is appended to Prof. Silliman's report a report of Col. Williamson of the property of the company, who made a survey of the same for the United States Government in 1860.

Col. Williamson, a civil engineer of established reputation, fully sustains Prof. Silliman and others in their statements as to the immense quantities of petroleum on the lands of the Pacific Petroleum Company of New-York. He also states that this is the only property on the California coast where large and invaluable deposits of the best quality of coal exist.

Subscriptions for the stock of this company will be received at the office of the undersigned, where the reports of Prof. Silliman and Col. J. Williamson may be obtained.

CHOICE OIL LANDS IN WESTERN VIRGINIA.—The subscribers offer for sale, 5,000 acres of excellent oil land, situated on the Little Kanawha River and its tributaries, in Calhoun and Wirt Counties, West Virginia, in quantities, from one to one thousand or more acres, to suit purchasers. This is very desirable oil territory, pretty thoroughly tested by adjacent borings, and rich in oil and minerals, as well as in good timber and soil. It would form an excellent basis for several large or many small oil companies. For further information, or for the purchase of all or any part of this land, address WILSON KING, Erie, Penn., or Rev. D. R. A. McLEAN, Beaver, Beaver Co., Penn.

The present and prospective value of the stock of this company may be inferred from the fact that it owns a fee-simple interest in 413 (four hundred and seventy-three) acres of the richest tested oil territory in Venango County, believed by the most experienced oil men in that region, to be capable of producing a net annual income to the company, of one and a half million of dollars, or three times the entire cost of the stock, which would be equivalent to twenty-five per cent. a month on its subscription price, or, one hundred and fifty per cent. per annum on its par value.

A FEW PLAIN WORDS TO SUCSCRIBERS.

The basis on which the company rests, it is believed will make your investment, not only safe, but, prospectively, of enormous value, because, at the present price of oil, the company's annual receipts, without any further development, are forty thousand dollars, or 8 per cent. on the cost of the stock.

The President, Mr. Stewart, is one of the most practical and experienced oil operators in the State, and his residence, near the company's property, and general oversight of its management, is the best guarantee that no efforts will be spared to make the investment profitable.

The Company owns in fee simple 25,000 acres of valuable timber-land in Potter County, Penn., situated on Cross Fork and Kettle Creek, both good rafting-streams. A steam saw-mill is nearly completed, and a large annual revenue will be derived from the sale of lumber for a long period of years.

The land is well adapted for agricultural purposes, and only 21 miles from the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad.

Beside there are on the lands several veins of bituminous coal, and last, though not least, a geological examination made by Messrs. Adelberg and Raymond, has proved that the OILBEARING ROCK UNDERLIES THE LAND.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Robbery at the Central National Bank.

On Monday afternoon a young man of genteel address entered the Central National Bank, in Broadway, at the head of Pearl-street, and observing two packages of United States five-twenty and ten-forty bonds on a tin box on the cashier's desk, snatched them, and made a hasty and successful retreat. These bonds, nearly all of which are the property of persons who deal with the bank—the institution owning only $19,000 of the $69,000 that were in the two bundles, were of small denomination of $50 and $100, and as the number of every bond is on record at the bank, and by this time has been made known to nearly every banker or broker in our principal cities, the thief will probably find his prize as valuable as the traditional elephant. The bank offers $10,000 reward, or a proportionate sum for the recovery of any number of the bonds. If this liberal offer does not induce the thief to restore the now worthless bonds, the bank will, of course, apply for duplicates, and the total loss to the institution, instead of reaching the large figure of $69,000, will be merely the cost of advertising, employing detective officers, &c., and perhaps one year's interest, at five and six per cent., gold, on $69,000. Mr. W. H. Peers, Cashier of the bank, says that no person was in his office when he inadvertently left the bonds on his desk, and went for a moment into an adjoining room to consult with a clerk, and on his return he saw no one, and was unable to account for the mysterious disappearance; but a boy, who was on the street, witnessed through the window the movements of the thief, as he dodged into the bank and seized the packages, ran out and up Broadway, and this boy has given our detective policemen a minute description of the fugitive. The numbers of the bonds are given in another column.

The Sixty-seventh Anniversary of the Organization of the Fire Department.

Monday last being the Sixty-seventh Anniversary of the organization of the Fire Department of this city, flags were displayed on the City Hall and several other public buildings, and also on the houses of most of the Engine and Hose Companies. About 9 P. M., nearly all the engine-houses were illuminated—many of them in quite a tasteful manner.

The officials of the Fire Department claim that it was organized in 1798, or sixty-seven years ago; but as early as 1731 fire engines were used in the city, and six years later, twenty-four firemen were appointed by the Legislature. The only recompense they received for their services was exemption from militia, constable, jury and other civil duties. Before the appointment of these firemen, the city was entirely dependent on the voluntary exertion of its citizens in extinguishing fires. In 1656, wardens were appointed, whose duty it was to inspect chimneys, &c., and to endeavor as far as possible to guard against fires breaking out. Two years later, fire buckets were introduced, and in 1678 every inhabitant of the city was obliged to keep one of these buckets in his house. From such small beginnings has arisen our present Fire Department, with its costly apparatus and numerous members.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

FUNERAL OF THE LATE REV. EVAN M. JOHNSON.—The remains of the late Rev. EVAN M. JOHNSON were conveyed to their final resting-place yesterday afternoon, accompanied by a very large concourse of relatives and friends and citizens generally. A procession of clergymen was formed at the house No. 294 Pearl-street, about 3 o'clock, and thence escorted the body to St. John's Church, corner of Washington and Johnson-streets, where the burial services were conducted in accordance with the rites of the Protestant Episcopal Church, by the Rector, Rev. GEORGE F. SEYMOUR, assisted by several others. After the services were concluded, the face of the deceased was exposed to view, and numbers embraced the opportunity to take a last look at the features of one whom several present had known for nearly half a century. These proceedings having been concluded, the coffin was carried to the hearse and conveyed to Greenwood Cemetery, where it was deposited in the family vault. Among those present in the church were Right Rev. Bishops Potter and Whitehouse; Rev. Drs. Littlejohn and Canfield; Rev. Messrs. A Ferry-boat Scene in Court—An Action for Assault and Battery.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—MARCH 21.

Before Judge Clerke and a Jury.

Charles McEntee vs. Ralph Noble.—The action was brought to recover damages for assault and battery. At the time of the grievance complained of—namely, the early part of the year 1863—the plaintiff was a Custom-house officer, and the defendant was, and still is, a Sandy Hook pilot. Early one rainy morning the two were crossing in a Brooklyn ferry-boat to New-York. The testimony given showed, that the gentlemen's cabin was filled. The defendant took a seat in front of the wheel-house, and placed a small bundle, which contained his slippers, on a vacant seat beside him. Plaintiff came in immediately after, looked around and concluded that the slippers occupied the only seat not taken. He took up the bundle, and, as one witness besides himself testified, asked the persons sitting on either side if it was their property. Receiving no answer, he either gently placed, or violently threw it on the floor. The testimony on this point was conflicting. Plaintiff took the seat, however, and in a few seconds the defendant asked him if he knew whose bundle that was. Plaintiff said no, nor did he care. Defendant said, "For aught you know it may contain articles of value, and you have thrown it upon the wet floor;" whereupon the latter caught up the bundle, and with a sudden movement struck plaintiff with it a violent blow in his face. The result was a profusion of blood from plaintiff's nose and great excitement among the passengers in the cabin, the most of them insisting that it was a great outrage for a large man like defendant to strike a small old man like the plaintiff. One passenger insisted on defendant's taking $10 from him, and then fighting a man of his size. When the boat reached the New-York side, defendant was taken into custody by a policeman, and conveyed to the Tombs. After a hearing in the case the magistrate fined defendant $20, and severely reprimanded him for having made an assault so unprovoked. In the Police Court, and also on the trial yesterday, the defendant admitted having struck the blow, but he insisted that plaintiff gave him great provocation for doing so. Defendant and his witnesses testified that plaintiff did not ask to have the package removed from the seat, but threw it violently into the mud and filth of the gentleman's cabin.

The plaintiff, in his complaint, claimed $5,000 damages. He testified that his nose and the side of his face were much scarred, and that for several days after he was unable to attend to his regular duties at the Custom-house. The jury were directed to bring in a sealed verdict this morning.

For plaintiff, Mr. Brown; for defendant, Messrs. Beebe, Dean and Donohue.

Conviction of Roger Lamb for the Murder of his Wife.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Russel.

The trial of Roger Lamb for the murder of his wife was resumed yesterday morning. The court was delayed for some time by the absence of one of the jurors.

Mary Driscoll recalled, and cross-examined by Mr. Hutchings—I lived for two years at No. 24 Oak-street, and boarded with the Lamb family; on the night of the murder the child Mary Riley and Ann Kenneday were in the room; I was standing by the table; when Mrs. Lamb was stabbed they were scuffling near the wood-box; I had taken some liquor, but was not drunk; Ann Kenneday went after some water for Mrs. Lamb; I saw her go myself; I will swear that at the time Mrs. Lamb was stabbed I was in the room, and saw the whole occurrence; after the stabbing Lamb had his shoes and staggered out of the room, for he was pretty drunk; I was the only sober person in that room.

Re-direct.—Mrs. Lamb kept a boarding-house; she had only the one room; there were two beds in the room; sometimes twelve persons lodged there at once over night; they were men and women; it was on the night of the murder that I told Lamb that I had seen his wife in bed with a soldier.

Michael O'Meara sworn for the defence.—I live at No. 26 Oak-street, and rented the room to Lamb that he formerly occupied; I knew him well; he is a quiet, peaceable man and never had any difficulty with any one; about two months ago I saw Mrs. Lamb drive Mr. Lamb out of the yard.

Officer O'Day sworn for the defence.—Ann Kenneday was quite drunk; Mrs. Riley was sober at the time of the murder.

Ann Kenneday, recalled.—Mary Driscoll was not in the room at the time of the murder; she had not been in the room since 4 o'clock in the afternoon; I was perfectly sober at the time.

Mary Riley, recalled.—Mary Driscoll was not in the room at the time of the murder; she left the house at 5 o'clock, and had not returned; I was sober.

Both sides rested here, and the case was summed up by William F. Kintzing, Esq., for the prisoner, and Assistant District Attorney Robert C. Hutchings for the people. Mr. Hutchings' argument was forcible, logical and convincing, and the jury rendered a verdict after a few moments' consultation, finding the prisoner guilty of murder in the first degree. He was remanded for sentence, and the court adjourned.

United States District Court.—March 20.

Before Judge Betts.

The newly appointed Judge of the District Court for the Eastern District, CHARLES L. BENEDICT, Esq., came before Judge BETTS this morning, and took the oath of office necessary to be taken before entering on his duties.
